Compromise Ahead for Bill

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — A Senate billboard bill headed today for possible compromise settlement in a HouseSenate conference committee.

Sen. J. F. Patterson, D-Caruthersville, president pro tem, ruled Sen. Robert A. Young, DSt. Ann, had no right to strike his bill from the calendar at this time.

When the Senate voted Wednesday to ask the House for a conference, Patterson said, that meant the Senate, technically, no longer had possession of the bill. Therefore, Young's motion to kill it in disgust was out of order.

It was one more development in what has become the 1972 legislature's most tangled maze.

A tired and exasperated House Roads and Highways Committee approved a bill Wednesday night to take the heat off Missouri on billboard control under the Highway Beautification Act and avert loss of $11.5 million in federal highway funds.

The bill offered the Missouri House of Representatives today is identical to one the Senate agreed to take to conference Wednesday before Sen. Robert A. Young, D-St. Ann, threw up his hands and asked that his entire bill be stricken from the calendar.

Rep. Walter Meyer, D-Bellefontaine Neighbors, committee chairman, said "All we tried to do was to get a backup proposal" as a vehicle to get to a House-Senate conference.

Time is running out. Legislators have one week to satisfy the U.S. Department of Transportation and put Missouri into federal conformity or face a temporary freeze on this year's federal funds.

The bill adopted Wednesday night still leaves unresolved the big problem — who is going to pay for billboards that have to be torn down?

Atty. Gen. John C. Danforth got into the act Wednesday saying highway funds could not be used to pay billboard owners. Use of the funds, derived from gasoline tax, he said, would be "clearly unconstitutional."

Robert L. Hyder, chief counsel for the state Highway Department, offered the House committee a substitute bill he said conformed with D.O.T. requirements and met with the approval of the attorney general's staff and "industry affected."

Delta Council Charts Course

Missouri Delta Council directors meeting today at the Holiday Inn will develop the organizational framework and priorities of activities for the council's future programs of work.

On the agenda is election of officers, approval of by-laws, making plans for the annual meeting, and a session to select programs for the council.

Jack Hutchison, Caruthersville, executive vice president, summarized the opinions of directors and those who elected them:

"We need a purely constructive Missouri Delta Area organization, directed and financed in a democratic manner by our area -wide Delta population.

"It should have no purpose of profit, with no semblance of governmental or large organizational restricted lines of communication and procedure -- an organization that can dynamically foster greater unity of thought -- that can and will promote and protect our best interests in a positive, cooperative, remedial, unemotional, nonpartisan manner both within and without our area."

In commenting on the organized effort to serve the area, Arline Avery, agricultural representative of the Bank of New Madrid and a farm management specialist said, "This council could fill the need for a coordinating agency for the general economy of the territory, if funded and staffed properly."

JEFFERSON CITY — The Missouri State Highway Commission has awarded contracts totaling $51,797.25 for seal coat shoulder treatment along Interstate and primary highways in Mississippi and Scott counties to Missouri Petroleum Products Company of Overland.

Bids on the projects were received by the highway department Feb. 22 along with bids on about $15 million worth of other projects.

BUSINESS IS BRISK at a white elephant sale Wednesday for benefit of the Jimmy Henderson fund during psychology class in Mrs. Sarah Dyke's room at New Madrid high school. Funds totaling $503.33 to aid their classmate stricken Sunday with a cerebral hemmorhage have been collected by the students.

$503 Raised for Stricken Boy

NEW MADRID — New Madrid high school students spearheading a Jimmy Henderson Fund campaign report $503.33 collected in 24 hours after a public appeal was made.

Henderson, 15, a freshman, is in intensive care at Baptist Hospital in Memphis, where he was in emergency surgery five hours Monday after being stricken Sunday with a cerebral hemmorage. His condition remains serious but he is slightly improved. He may be able to leave intensive care soon.

Funds received as individual donations and proceeds from a white elephant sale Wednesday in Mrs. Sarah Dyke's classroom. A bouquet made and donated by Mrs. Delmar Hammett netted $40 in a contest in her classes.

Praising the youths for their response and enthusiasm in aiding young Henderson Mrs. Dyke said "you just can't beat these students."

Activities planned for Jimmy Henderson Day Saturday by the student body include a bake sale, roadblocks, car wash, yard cleaning, window washing, baby sitting or odd jobs of any type. Persons may telephone 748-5576 to obtain any of these services. The car wash will start at 8 a.m. Saturday at the Bank of New Madrid parking lot.

Back Slapping No Lure to Industry

The days when a city could attract industry by back slapping executives and buying them a round of drinks are over, according to Charles Matthews.

Matthews, president of the Sikeston Industrial Development Corporation, spoke to the Lions Club yesterday. The SIDC was formed in 1954 to help bring industry to the city and to help keep the Anchor Toy Company in operation.

Matthews said today's businessman wants to talk to utilities and school superintendents and other community leaders.

He told the Lions the SIDC is careful in its selection of enterprises it seeks. Sikeston doesn't need a firm beset with labor or financial problems, Matthews said. He added, the SIDC is careful not to bring polluters to the city.

Why does industry want to locate in Sikeston? Because productivity is high here, Matthews said, and because the interstate highways, railroads and the river, provide an excellent transportation system. Also, he added, the vocational schools impress many businessmen.

There are enough problems to frighten many of the businessmen away. Sikeston does not have a large pool of skilled labor. Kentucky has lower electric rates and Arkansas has a right- to- work law. Also, Matthews said, the proximity of Cairo and its racial problems have frightened some prospects.

Matthews told the Lions that Malone and Hyde will add 50,000 square feet to its building and about 25 new jobs.

Caproco Company, he said, now employes 314 with a $1 million plus payroll. Caproco was a marginal firm in St. Louis but grew when it moved to Sikeston, he said.

Matthews said he hopes soon to be able to announce two new firms are moving to the city. One already has bought land and agreed to move here.

Biggest Jump In 14 Years

Grocery Prices Up

WASHINGTON (AP) — The biggest jump in grocery prices in 14 years last month triggered the sharpest rise in overall living costs since before President Nixon imposed economic controls, the government reported today.

The Consumer Price Index, measuring typical family living costs, rose five-tenths of one per cent in February, the largest increase in nine months, the Labor Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics said.

Grocery prices, which include a number of items that are not subject to federal price controls, soared 1.9 per cent for the greatest one-month increase since March of 1958, the report said.

The report followed the resignation of three AFL-CIO members of Nixon's s Pay Board, who charged the government was rigidly holding down wages while letting prices continue to climb.

The bureau also reported that average weekly earnings of some 45 million rank-and-file workers rose 35 cents a week to $130.27, but that purchasing power declined 24 cents because of the rise in consumer prices.

The February boost pushed the price index up to 123.8 per cent of its 1967 average. This means it cost $12.38 last month for every $10 worth of typical family purchases five years ago.

The February increase was the greatest since a six-tenths of one per cent rise last June, two months before Nixon imposed a 90-day wage-price freeze which was then followed by Phase 2 controls.

The bureau said that, so far in the four months of Phase 2, living costs have risen at an annual rate of 4.9 per cent, greater than the 4.1 per cent rate in the six months before Nixon's August economic freeze.

Prices had been held to an annual rate of 1.7 per cent during the rigid three-month freeze that preceded the looser Phase 2 controls.

Price hikes in February included two-tenths of one per cent for housing, four-tenths each for clothing and medical care and one-tenth of one per cent for recreation.

Transportation costs declined six-tenths of one per cent, the report said.

A steep rise in meat prices, it said, accounted for about 70 per cent of the big rise in food prices.

Fresh fruits and vegetables also rose considerably. Dairy products rose instead of declining as usual in February, and cereal and bakery products went up for the first time in four months, the report said.

Raw agricultural products, such as fruits and vegetables and eggs, are exempt from federal price controls.

Other increases included local transit fares, property taxes and natural gas rates, although the increases were smaller, it said.

Residential telephone and electrical service rates continued to rise sharply.

Mortgage interest rates declined, and so did automobile and gasoline prices, the report said.

State and local taxes and interest rates are also exempt from federal price controls.

The bureau said about onefifth of the over-all rise in February living costs was due to items exempt from price controls.

City Utility Office Will Move in April

The city light and water company will move from its location on New Madrid and Front streets to new offices in the old police station, 140 North Prairie, in April, according to Dick Inman, director of municipal utilities.

Inman said the move was being made "because the present location is not adequate for us to perform the services we want to extend."

Inman said the new location will have a drive- in window, two night deposit boxes, and will include administrative, engineering, billing and warehousing operations.

The old police station building is being remodled and a new 20 by 80 foot section has been built between the warehouse and the station. The total cost of the renovation will be between $60, and $75,000, Inman said.

Inman said the company's building on the corner of New Madrid and Front is owned by the utility and probably will be sold.

The stores were Rudy's Furniture Co., Lewis Furniture Co., both of Sikeston, and Hy McWilliams Furniture Co. of Poplar Bluff.

In each case the man would select about $900 worth of furniture and pay for the purchase with a $1,000 check. He then left with nearly $100 in change, saying he would pick up the furniture later.

The man was described as 55-60, about five feet 11 inches tall, 150 pounds, having gray hair, and wearing a dark suit and a yellow shirt.

Death Case To Court

NEW MADRID — Earnest David Hampton, 38, of Parma Wednesday was ordered bound over to circuit court for appearance May 1 on a manslaughter charge following a preliminary hearing before Scott County Magistrate Lloyd G. Briggs.

Judge Briggs ordered $5,000 bond continued.

Hampton is charged in the death Feb. 23 of Thomas L. Byrd one and one half miles south of Marston on highway 61, when he was crushed between two cars after Hampton drove off the highway and struck the rear of one car.

Testimony was heard from Mrs. Lauren Byrd, widow of the victim, and highway patrol troopers Robert Little and Randal Bess.

Mrs. Byrd testified she and her husband were returning from Portageville to Marston between 8 p.m. and 8:30 p.m. when a Toyota she was driving quit running. She said she drove off the highway onto the shoulder on the east side. The two then walked to their trailer home in Marston and returned to the stalled car in her 1964 Ford.

Mrs. Byrd said her husband parked the Ford on the shoulder facing the Toyota. Her husband, she said, was between the two cars using jumper cables to start the Toyota, She was seated in the Toyota.

Shortly after the Toyota was started Mrs. Byrd said there was a crush from the rear by a car being driven by Hampton.

She said the Toyota was shoved over the Ford, went across the highway and into a field on the left side of the highway.

Mrs. Byrd testified Hampton appeared to be drunk and that she could smell liquor. She said that she yelled at him to find her husband when she couldn't see him after the accident and that Hampton "just sat there behind the steering wheel of his car."

Trooper Little testified as to the locations and damages of the three vehicles. He said debris from the crash was on the shoulder of the highway about two feet from the edge of the pavement. Little said Hampton, in his opinion, was intoxicated and he placed him under arrest for driving while intoxicated.

Trooper Bess testified he brought Hampton to the New Madrid county jail for a breathalyzer test. Bess said he advised Hampton of his constitutional rights and that Hampton telephoned an attorney before the test was given.

The test, Bess, said, made at 9:35 p.m. had a reading of .15 per cent alcohol content, which indicated intoxication.

Judge Briggs, named to serve at the hearing after the disqualification of New Madrid country Magistrate Judge Leo Hedgepeth, announced his decision after Hampton's attorney made a statement that the state did not prove any criminal negligence was involved and the testimony presented was conclusions and not substantiated.

Byrd had been employed since November at the power plant construction site in St. Jude Industrial Park near Marston.

The family had moved to Parma from Warrenton in January.

WILL OUR FREEDOM BROADCASTS DIE?

Radio Free Europe and Radio Liberty are about to be liquidated. They broadcast the news and truth beyond the Iron Curtain — a service of inestimable importance to some 200 million persons. Radio Free Europe has been broadcasting each day to Eastern Europe since 1950. Radio Liberty has been reaching out to millions of listeners in the Soviet Union since 1951. The stations are privately operated with assistance from the United States Government. Funds for these operations ran out last month. The stations are now in imminent danger of closing up.

Senator J. William Fulbright takes the position that President Nixon's pledge not to interfere in the internal affairs of Communist China makes further support of the radio stations in Europe "incomprehensible." Mr. Fulbright's attitude makes it clear that the far Left in the Democratic party takes the Nixon-Chou communique as a signal for the collapse of all future efforts to present the American point of view to any Communist country.

Yet both houses of Congress have already approved the continuation of these radio stations. The bill approved by the House differed little from that adopted by the Senate. But it was necessary to send the matter to conference. The differences concern how long the programs shall continue, and how the funding is to be handled. Mr. Fulbright leads the opposition of three of the five Senators in the conference.

The intransigent attitude of the Fulbright group is that the radio stations are relics of the cold war. Representative Peter Frelinghuysen of New Jersey asserts:

"If three Senators should be successful in killing these programs it will have been because of their manipulation of the legislative process, in definance of the expressed desire of both the House and the Senate to have these programs continue. This is most unfortunate."

Let us not leave the matter there. Speak up!

IMPROVING GI BILL BENEFITS

About 917,000 veterans are attending some form of college under the GI Bill this year. The current $175-a-month stipend may sound generous to the World War II veterans who remember receiving $75 a month but, in fact, the Viet Nam veteran has it much worse. Annual benefits in 1947-48 included up to $500 a year to the World War II vet's school to meet tuition payments. Today's veteran must pay for his tuition out of the $175-a-month stipend.

Moreover, U. S. News & World Report notes (March 20, 1972) that another round of tuition hikes scheduled for next autumn "will add hundreds of dollars a year to basic bills at colleges all over the country." Even at the public colleges, state residents commonly must pay from $400 to $600 in annual tuition.

The entire subject of GI Bill benefits will be taken up when the Senate Veterans Committee opens hearings on Thursday, March 23. Before the committee is a House-passed bill that would increase the GI Bill stipend to $200 a month. But pressure is building for a direct tuition payment in addition. Sen. Vance Hartke (D Ind.) the committee chairman, is reported (Washington Post, March 14, 1972) to be leaning toward such an approach.

Any further benefits will be costly. With some 1.9 million veterans receiving GI Bill benefits of all kinds, the Veterans Administration will pay out more than $2 billion for education, training and rehabilitation in the current fiscal year. If the House - passed $200-a-month stipend legislation becomes law, the total for fiscal 1973 will reach $2.3 billion or more. Since 1969, total education and training benefits will have increased by 250 per cent.

HUNGRY TO BED

Do you know how many people go to bed hungry each night? One million? Two million? Colorado State University's "Pesticide Pipeline" reports two billion people — that's two-thirds of the world's population — have an insufficient food supply. This hunger leads to 10,000 deaths from starvation every day. Undernourished children and adults become victims of diseases the average person probably has never seen or heard of, or die from illnesses which our well-nourished bodies fight off with ease.

NORANDA ONE YEAR LATER

By Jack Stapelton, Jr.

It was just one year ago that the St. Louis Globe-Democrat published a front-page, eight- column -wide "expose" of labor conditions at the Noranda industrial complex in the Bootheel.

The "facts" as presented by the St. Louis newspaper stood in great contrast to the actual conditions at the New Madrid industrial facility which were correctly reported several days earlier by this newspaper. The St. Louis newspaper's story, however, contained a wide variety of rumors, distortions and untruths that made it appear as if Noranda were embroiled in a highly-emotional labor situation that threatened to disrupt progress for the state's largest industrial acquisition.

Well, what has happened at Noranda after one year?

Perhaps the Globe-Democrat would be interested in knowing that despite its amazingly inaccurate "expose" of conditions there, the aluminum plant is in operation and has been operating for months without a single labor disturbance.

Perhaps the Glob-Democrat would be interested in knowing that despite its distortion-filled "expose," progress has been amazingly swift in construction of the huge power plant at Noranda which, when completed, will be the third largest power source in the entire state of Missouri.

Perhaps the Globe-Democrat would be interested in knowing that despite its poorly written "expose," the Noranda Company has decided to enlarge certain of its facilities, giving lie to the contention of the St. Louis newspaper that the firm was disenchanted with the Bootheel and with the so-called "labor unrest."

The truth of the matter is - and was - the company experienced far less labor difficulties than the St. Louis newspaper claimed for it. There were some jurisdictional problems, created primarily by St. Louis unions, but these had to do with construction work at the plant, not the operation of the plant itself.

In an editorial a year ago, this newspaper suggested that perhaps one explanation for the Globe Democrat's sudden interest in the Bootheel could be traced to the strong interest of a major St. Louis company in locating near the Noranda complex. We suggested at the time that the newspaper, at the behest of St. Louis business interests, wrote its story for the primary purpose not of informing its readers - which it did not do - but in convincing the interested industry the labor conditions were notoriously bad in the Bootheel. We may well have been correct inview of the fact that the St. Louis company called off its proposed move despite the best efforts of local and state industrial experts to correct the jaundiced impressions left by the Globe-Democrat.

There was some evidence to support this newspaper's view that the Globe "expose" was actually written by a reporter who never visited the Bootheel industrial site. There has been no evidence to the contrary ever presented by the newspaper.

One year after its "expose," we feel certain the Globe -Democrat will be interested in writing another story, this one giving the correct facts and correcting the erroneous ones that the newspaper has permitted to stand for 12 months.

We await the corrected story with great interest.

But no assurance that it will ever come to pass.

SAVE YOUR 1972 CALENDAR

Hold onto your 1972 calendars, folks. According to the World Almanac's perpetual calendar, the identical arrangement of days and dates will repeat itself in the year 2000.

(A 1944 or 1916 calendar will do just as well, if you still have one of those. Which means, by the way, that this is the first time this century that this particular calendar has begun without a World War in full swing.)

For those looking forward to ringing in a new century, it's good to realize that New Years's Day, 2000, will fall on a Saturday, as it did this year. That will leave a whole weekend to recuperate, though maybe by that time there will be a one-day work week and a six-day weekend.

Hal Boyle

By BILLIE BROWN

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Eighteenth century London had its White Hart pub, where Dr. Samuel Johnson, Sir Joshua Reynolds, Alexander Pope and other neoclassics gathered for learned discourse and a draught of ale.

Modern-day Atlanta has the Stein Club—the only bar in the world, as far as its habitues can determine, that holds an annual spelling bee.

On a Friday night, it packs in more academic degrees per square inch than you could measure with a slide rule.

Hence the spelling bee, forcing Stein Club regulars who dispute and debate year round over draft beer to put up or sit down each January.

The Second Annual Stein Club Orthographic Open was held in the back room of the bar. This reporter went to kibitz and stayed to conquer—beating an economic geographer, an engineer with a masters degree in Middle English literature, an architect, last year's winner— the state Public Serice Commission reporter—and 15 other contestants—by correctly spelling "phthisic," "gyve," "pyrrhic" and "jodhpur."

This display of orthographic pre-eminence earned me the No. 2 engraving on the Annual Orthographic Open plaque that hangs over the Stein Club bar, a case of beer, a hand-struck silver medal and a certificate.

Wearing my seventh-grade spelling medal from Bad Breuznach, Germany, for confidence, I made my way through the obscure hubbub in the main room to the back and took my place among the 200 spelling enthusiasts.

As the zero hour of 8:15 approached, someone passed out sheets of yellow foolscap. Sergeant at arms Wilson Paige called for order.

Twenty beer glasses hit the table, twenty ballpoint pens poised over yellow foolscap, and the race was on.

The end of Round 1 spelled heartache and intellectual humiliation for 12 contenders. Round 2 eliminated four and Round 3, two more.

I was still in.

My tablemates, hors de combat, rallied round, bending to peer as I wrote "thysic," and again as I scratched it out and substituted "phthisic."

"Gnathion"—which, pronouncer Paul Niblock explained, denotes "the lower midportion of the human mandible"—stumped me. But it stumped my last remaining opponent, Martha van Dusenberg, too.

The final score was 48 to 45 of a possible 50 words. I bungled "balalaika" in Round 2.

"The winner is—Billie Brown!" Cheers. The sound of beer pouring. Applause.

"It's another blow for women's lib," cried the '71 champion, male chauvinist Dick Price.

"Too bad for Price," commented timekeeper Robert Hatcher as he congratulated me. "He wanted us just to go ahead and have ditto marks engraved on the plaque this year."

HARD TO UNDERSTAND THIS

Years ago, our nation had the mistaken notion in elections that "as Maine goes, so goes the nation." That theory has been exploded several times, in fact, in one election, a candidate for national office carried only one state - Maine.

Now we're getting to the point where we believe that whatever happens in the New Hampshire primary will happen all over the nation.

It doesn't make sense. New Hampshire is about the size of Monroe County, or not much larger. Its people, steeped in eastern backgrounds, do not think like the rest of us in the midwest or west or south.

We ought to either refute the idea that the New Hampshire primary is so important, or demand that all presidential primaries be eliminated, or that all states hold them at the same time.

Either would be fairer to our national candidates, regardless of their party or their following. — Paris Appeal.

MOON VERSUS POOR

The never-ending fight of various groups for a larger share of the pie of federal spending reached the ultimated inanity with the charge that, "The U. S. spent $24 billion to go to the moon, Nixon wants to spend only $4 billion to help the poor." The facts of the "Moon versus the poor" controversy, as contained in a late issue of U. S. News and World Report, paint a different picture of tax dollar distribution. The U. S. is currently spending $19 billion a year in direct aid to the poor from federal, state and local governments. This does not include spending for other services shared by people at all income levels. Nor does it include private charity. By contrast, the $24 billion spent to reach the moon was expended over a period of 10 years -- $2.4 billion per year. If the new welfare program as proposed by the Nixon Administration becomes law, total governmental spending for the poor in the U. S. will increase to $23 billion a year.

Aside from the financial arithmetic of moon flights versus government spending for the poor, U. S. space exploration represents the progress of a nation still growing in stature and vitality. All of us, including the poor, are benefactors of this growth. Instead of kicking, we should be proud. We have to progress to take care of the poor.

THIEF IN HEN HOUSE

Everybody kicks about taxes. Yet, strangely, even while evidencing explosive resentment toward any taxpayer who allegedly escapes his share of taxes, we remain indifferent to the tax avoidance of commercial government enterprises built with taxpayers' money as substitutes for taxpaying private enterprise. This indifference is most notable in the electric industry where states, municipalities, and the federal government go into business in the guise of providing "Cheap Power" -- power that is cheap solely because somebody else makes up the taxes escaped by the government business ventures.

What it means to a community when a taxpaying power company invests its own funds in expansion is well illustrated in the remarks of an official of a typical power company on the occasion of the announcement of a $48 million expansion program by his company. After pointing out that the company was asking nothing from any government agency, he said that by the expansion the company would put into the county tax collector's hands nearly $400,000 when the new plant is complete. Even now, his company pays county taxes annually of approximately $350,000. In commenting on the growth of this investor-owned company, the local newspaper reminds its readers that investor-owned power companies"...do these epic feats by their own initiative and funding -- not by government grants, supports, subsidies, and other insidiously attractive shiboleths of unnecessary statist intervention in the economy, which ultimately become obstacles in the way of the spirit of free enterprise and private initiative."

When will the tax-conscious taxpayers wake up to the fact that government is the biggest chicken thief in the tax hen house?

NO END TO INFLATION WHILE DEFICIT SPENDING CONTINUES

In his Economic Report, President Nixon stated that price and wage controls would be retained until "reasonable price stability can be maintained without controls." Yet the economic measures advocated by the Administration practically guaranteed that inflation will continue.

The Administration is deliberately planning a huge deficit of $25.5 billion for the next fiscal year. President Nixon said: "This deficit is strong medicine.... but we have taken it in order to give a powerful stimulus to employment."

Planned deficits almost always end up higher than planned: this fiscal year's estimated $11.6 billion deficit has already ballooned to $28 billion and will probably grow at least another $10 billion before the fiscal year has ended.

Although this deficit is justified as a spur to the economy, the first and most important effect of any government deficit is inflation. As any shopper knows, price controls have not kept prices from rising. With deficit spending continuing and in fact deliberatly increased, prices are sure to rise even more.

In 1970, the President indicated in his budget message that he understood the connection between deficit spending and inflation: "I have pledged to the American people tht I would submit a balanced budget for 1971. This is particularly necessary because the cost of living has been rising rapidly for the past five years.... The surplus...is essential both to stem persistent inflationary pressures and to relieve hard-pressed financial markets.

The President and his financial advisers should be reminded of these words. Our citizens will never be free from "inflationary pressures" so long as vast government spending programs produce budget deficits.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

Secret Golf Game: Inside Story: Meany, Nixon Cool it publicly in duel for 30 per cent GOP labor vote

WASHINGTON — Behind the scenes, far from the roar of the crowd whipped up by the ever-more primordial primaries, two political craftsmen with two of this nation's most skilled political minds are dueling quietly. The prize is the White House of 1973.

This contest between President Nixon and AFL-CIO President George Meany, I do believe, will decide the November elections far more than will even the most significant of primaries. At stake for starters is about 30 per cent of America's union members who traditionally vote Republican and can make or break Mr. Nixon's candidacy.

Mr. Nixon wants to keep them. Mr. Meany wants to swing them. Yet so subtle is Meany's strategy that, should the President win in spite of official labor's toughest opposition in decades, Meany will come out of it all as merely the political not personal enemy of the President in his final term.

Thus there are Meany's off-the-record conversations with many of his own supreme Executive Council on his personal eagerness once and for all to walk off the Pay Board, be rid of the whole complex of creaking Phase Two stabilization machinery.

And yet quietly, in the best Kissinger style, Meany slipped off with Budget and Management Director George Shultz, Mr. Nixon's most trusted home front adviser, to play golf for several days at the Augusta National Golf Course. This was some two weeks ago.

It may well be that Meany likes golf. Shultz likes golf. They like the old Eisenhower cottage links. And so they played golf and Shultz topped the cigar chomper. But silent they weren't as they went round and round together.

Some days after this secret -- or at least unreported -- rendezvous, Meany breakfasted with President Nixon (March 10). I'm privileged to report some facts. Off the record is off the record. But after more than an hour of amiable, chuckling conversations and deep briefing by National Security Adviser Dr. Kissinger, Meany turned to the President and switched subjects.

Neither man had forgotten the acrid name calling. Or that labor's high council had told the President he knew what he could do if he didn't like labor's action. And that Meany and colleagues would "get the hell" off the Pay Board if they didn't like his, or its, position.

Meany has a supreme sense of the political maneuver and can cool things, surprisingly enough, with charm when he wishes. And he wished. Quietly, in the President's family dining room, he told the President he did not believe the Pay Board could "do the job." He blamed the industry-public members voting coalition. He said that wages were locked in and prices were not being controlled.

And with a smile, received reciprocally, Meany wound up with, "And, that, Mr. President, is my beef for the day." And coming from Meany, the President knew it was weighty. He was expecting the AFL—CIO's three Pay Board members to take a walk. If this wasn't what Meany was saying, then he has gone out of the signal-sending business. Phast Two was about to get a dumping, the President believed.

But there was no hostility. These men are pros. Some of Mr. Nixon's insiders had criticized his decision to invite Meany in after the labor chief had angered much of the public during the battle of Bal Harbour. But the President is not about to alienate much of the labor movement which he believes was and is still with him. So there were smiles and thank-yous and Meany returned to his "eighth floor" rampart to marshal his assault on the President and the Pay Board.

A few days later he scheduled the emergency AFL-CIO Executive Council session over the Longshoremen's contract crisis. He never moves unless he has the votes. He spoke at length with Pay Board member, steel union president I.W. Abel, just before the latter flew to Japan. Abe said, okay, he'd go along with whatever Meany advocates. Later I checked with another Pay Board member, Machinists and aerospace leader Floyd "Red" Smith. Said he:

"I'm for pulling out of the Pay Board. I see no sense in staying during this chaos. We are locked in on collective bargaining. They cut us (aerospace) down and the West Coast longshoremen. So I'm for walking off."

There in profile you have the story behind the Wednesday Executive Council session. But why the Meany ambivalence? Why so privately friendly with Shultz and the President and so publicly angry? Because Meany sees himself locked in on the Pay Board. The 10 business and public members have the majority. Thus Meany and his colleagues don't have "the votes" on the board with which to deliver to a carnivorous rank and file. The labor people need leverage to demonstrate they are not part of the freeze on wages and the thaw on prices which apparently no one can help without a 75,000-man (and woman) bureaucracy.

This they must demonstrate, they decided. But not in the head-hitting fashion of Bal Harbour. Not in the personal attacks. After all, Mr. Nixon may well be President next year.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON — The White House, in its effort to discredit us and Whitewash the international telephone and telegraph (ITT) scandal, is conducting a massive undercover campaign.

The manpower has been drawn from the White House, justice department, republican national committee and the committee for the re-election of the president (caps C.R.P.).

Even the justice department's internal security division (ISD), which is supposed to investigate spies and saboteurs, has been put on our trail.

Dozens of government gumshoes, presidential aides and political flunkies have been assigned to investigate us, to prepare attacks on us and to plant stories in the press against us.

ITT has also retained the world's most famous and formidable private investigating firm, intertel, to assist with the investigation. This is the same outfit that broke Swiss Bank secrecy and exposed Clifford Irving's phony autobiography of billionaire Howard Hughes.

Intertel submits its inestigative reports to ITT, which has made them available to the White House. Presidential aides, in turn, have fed the material to republican senators for use against us.

INCRIMINATING MEMO

Here's the incredible, behind-the-scenes story:

At first, the strategy was to discredit Dita Beard, the salty-tongued ITT lobbyist, who wrote the incriminating memo suggesting there had been a link between the settlement of ITT's antitrust cases and a commitment from ITT to help finance the Republican Convention.

Her physician, Dr. Victor L. Liszka, conferred with justice department officials Harlington Wood, Jr., and John T. Duffner on the eve of his appearance at the Senate hearing. He testified that Mrs. Beard had told him she wrote the memo but was "mad and disturbed" at the time.

When this tack failed, the president's men tried to peddle the idea that we had conspired with Dita Beard to concoct the damaging Memo. This was planted with Sen. Marlow Cook, R-Ky., who rushed out with a statement questioning "The Veracity of Anderson's account of how he obtained the Memorandum and perhaps even on the origin and content of the memorandum itself."

One of the justice department's counterspies, John Martin, Internal security analysis and evaluation (caps A.E.) chief, tried to establish a link between Dita Beard and US. Intertel's president, Robert Peloquin, and his chief Gunshoe, Ed Mullin, also worked on this angle.

Their "evidence " was routed through the White House to Senator Cook. This, too, backfired.

Then began the belated campaign to reverse the Doctor's testimony and to persuade Mrs. Beard to change her story. An active and ardent California republican, David W. Fleming, appeared as Mrs. Beard's attorney. He held a series of meetings with top republicans and ITT officers in Washington, then issued a notarized statement signed by the poor woman claiming the memo was a forgery.

WHITE HOUSE WARRIORS

This latest "evidence" significantly, was released in Washington by senate republican leader Hugh Scott. Flemming also made statements to the press that sounded more as if he were representing the Nixon administration than Dita Beard.

Meanwhile, president Nixon's new deputy communications director, Ken. W. Clawson, has been handling press strategy. He has advised Senator Cook and contacted newsmen in an attempt to promote stories against us.

Two other White House aides, Jonathan Rose and George Crawford, also slipped around to Sen. Norris cotton's office with a draft speech for the New Hampshire republican to deliver on the ITT affair. Senators Barry Goldwater and Paul Fannin, both Arizona republicans, also delivered speeches that were prepared by the republican national committee.

ARMY HEART

It isn't often that we can report a heartwarming human story about the army. But such is the case of Captain and Mrs. David Kelley and their four-year-old son, David, Jr.

Since age one, young David has had a form of cancer known as Wilm's tumor. Until now, he has received excellent treatment at Walter Reed Army Hospital. But recently his father, presently stationed at Ft. Lee, Va., was notified he would have to leave the service because of personnel cuts.

The family could not afford continued medical treatment, so they petitioned the Army to permit David to continue receiving medical care from the military.

The Kelleys feel the army is at least partially responsible for their son's condition. Mrs. Kelley was ten weeks pregnant with David when she had an automobile accident. She was repeatedly X-rayed at an Army hospital and some doctors think the X-rays could have had something to do with David's disease.

The cancer was discovered on David's kidney when he was but a year old. It was removed, but another one was soon found on his lung. David was treated with cobalt and chemicals, to no avail. Part of the right lung was cut out.

Then last year, physicians had to remove a growth from David's intestine. They found other tumors on his forehead and spinal cord and treated them with radiation and surgery.

The plucky youngster is now confined to a wheelchair, but he is beginning to walk again. Years of expensive treatment lie ahead, treatment that the Kelleys cannot afford once the father leaves the military.

Recently, acting secretary Kenneth Belieu ruled favorably on the Kelley's petition. It is good to be reminded once in a while that the Army has a heart.

Senate Favors Return To One-Term Governor

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The Missouri Senate first defeated, then reversed itself and passed a constitutional amendment Wednesday reverting to the old one-term limitation for Missouri governors.

The first vote was 16-14, two short of the necessary 18 majority. The Senate immediately reconsidered that action on a 23-9 vote, then sent the proposal to the House on a 19-14 vote.

There was no debate, although the plan had caused a heated argument earlier.

Today Sen. Earl R. Blackwell, D-Hillsboro, merely said that he wanted to detract some of the power from the executive branch and add to the power of the legislative branch.

He had said earlier that the two-term plan approved by the voters in 1965 hadn't worked. Opponents argued then that the state should keep the two-term rule until it has more experience with it.

Gov. Warren E. Hearnes sponsored the two-term amendment during his first term, then became the first governor ever elected to succeed himself for two four-year terms.

Also passed and sent to the House on a 22-9 vote was a bill to raise the pay of major Missouri judges by $10,000 a year. There was no debate. An emergency clause to make it effective immediately lost, 6-26.

Earlier a new controversy over the embattled billboard control bill raised doubts whether it could be passed before a March 31 deadline for loss of $11.5 million in federal highway funds.

Passed and sent to the governor, 25-0, was a bill to make the state pay the full costs of distributing surplus food commodities. Counties now pay 20 per cent of the cost but many have said they would have to abandon the free food program because they don't have the money.

If a county wanted to participate in local management of the program, it would have the option of paying 15 per cent of the cost.

The estimated state cost this year would be $310,772 and next year $840,000. The bill carries an emergency clause to make it effective as soon as it is signed by the governor, who recommended such a law.

Also sent to the governor was a bill to raise salaries for employes in probate courts of second class counties.

Passed and sent to the House were measures to:

Lower the alcohol level found in the blood to 10 hundredths of 1 per cent as evidence the suspected driver is intoxicated.

Provide a schedule of state income tax revisions following the federal income tax guidelines.

Add a judge to the Springfield Court of Appeals.

Increase county library taxes from 20 to 30 cents on the $100 valuation if the voters approve.

Allow a county court to add two former welfare recipients to county welfare commissions.

Put farmers mutual insurance companies under regulation of the Division of Insurance.

Bar chiropractors from advertising their services, the same as other doctors.

PERKINS IN LEAD

NEW YORK (AP) — Tony Perkins has been signed by producers Frank Perry and Dominick Dunne for the leading role of a film producer in "Play It As It Lays," for Universal. Filming began in December in Hollywood and will continue in Las Vegas.

Patterson Opposes Hike

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Here is the Senate roll call vote on increasing the pay of major judges by $10,000 a year:

For—Avery, Blackwell, Bradshaw, Brancato, Cason, Esely, Gant, Jones of St. Louis County, Jones of Kansas City, Joynt, Keating, Lee, Linehan, Manford, Payne, Pentland, Schechter, Skelton, Spradling, Tinnin, Webster, Young. Total 22.

Against—Cox, Howard, Johnson, Merrell, Owens, Patterson, Schneider, Vanlandingham, Waters. Total 9.

A Minute Means More Than You May Think

By AP Newsfeatures

Did you ever stop to think how much a minute is worth and what it means to you and your company?

An examination of the Department of Labor's hourly wage scales show that today non-supervisory workers in industry are making an average of $3.36 an hour for 36.9 hour week. Although industry is primarily concerned with the work day from an hourly standpoint, some interesting figures crop up when the minute is scrutinized.

A look at the traditional 10-minute coffee break or those five minutes generally taken each day to chat with fellow employees is a dramatic illustration.

The $3.36 per hour average wage is equal to 5.6 cents per minute and multiplying it through against the coffee break and office chatter time you come up with $218 over the course of a year. That's over 1-3/4 weeks salary for the worker earning $3.36 an hour or $123.98 a week.

The middle management executive earning $20,000 a year is clicking off the minutes to the tune of 16.7 cents per, or $725 a year in coffee breaks and chatting alone.

Should you want to calculate your own per minute value the formula is simple and quite obvious. Just determine your hourly wage rate based on the number of hours you work each week and divide by 60.

"It's amazing what a disparity there is between how much time a person thinks he spends doing various tasks related to his work and the actual time involved," says Harry B. Henshel, president of Bulova Watch Co.

"Everyone can benefit from an analysis of his typical day.

Ann Landers

Playing Doctor Not Funny At 17

Dear Ann Landers: I am so furious I don't know what to do. I need your help. Last weekend we had a family reunion. The house was full of relatives and I was busy in the kitchen a good bit of the time.

A 17-year-old nephew seemed to be hanging around our five-year-old daughter. I didn't give it much thought until later in the day when they both were missing. I started to check the rooms. Well, I caught the boy "playing doctor" with our little girl. She had all of her clothes off and he was "examining her." I expressed my anger in unmistakable langauge. What burned me up more than anyting was his casual atttitude. "I was just messing around," he said. "What are you so excited about?"

He asked me to do him a favor and not mention the matter to his mother. So far I haven't said anything to anyone. My husband would thrash the boy within an inch of his life if he knew. I don't know what his own father would do. Am I making a mistake by keeping this to myself? Please give me some advice, Ann. I'm very upset. --- St. Louis Dilemma

Dear Dilemma: When two little kids "play doctor" it's nothing to become alarmed about -- but a 17-year-old boy is no little kid. You should do two things. First, explain to your little girl that her body is private and she should not allow anybody to take liberties with it. Instruct her to tell you at once she should not allow anybody to take liberties with it. Instruct her to tell you at once if anyone tries. Second, tell the boy's mother what occurred. If he is making a practice of "messing around" with little girls his parents should take him for psychological testing and treatment if it is indicated.

Dear Ann Landers: Howdo you tell someone you love that a personality trait of his drives people up the wall? Jim is so slow in conversation that it takes tremendous self control to keep from shrieking, "For Lord's sake hurry up and get to the point!" You know what he is going to say long before he says it. Friends and relatives suffer in silence. Their discomfort is apparent to everyone but Jim.

Employers are not so compassionate. Jim just lost his seventh job in four years and he is very depressed. He has no concept of how he comes across to others, in spite of the hints. He considers himself methodical and blames the job losses on "people who are out to get him."

This trait is ruining our lives and I'm so worried I'm sick. I can't bear to hurt his pride by telling him he's so slow he irritates people beyond belief and that only friends and relatives will put up with it. --- Sign Me Ill And Tired Because I'm Both

Dear Ill and Tired: For the love of heaven TELL HIM in plain language exactly what you have told me. Your silence is hurting him worse than anything you might say. Perhaps he cannot conquer the habit completely, but he should be told so he can go to work on it.

Dear Ann Landers: There are several girls in our family and we all have children under three years of age. Will you please settle something? Should we leave porcelain figurines, crystal ashtrays, and fragile knickknacks within reach of busy little hands and try to teach the children not to touch? Or is it better to put nice things away until the children are older? --- P.A.M.

Dear P.A.M.: When my own daughter was a toddler I never put anything out of her reach. I taught her not to touch them. Margo has trained her three children the same way. The only important loss I ever suffered was a crack in a Dorothy Doughty figurine --- by a 55-year-old guest from Seattle.

Are drugs O.K. if you learn how to control them? Can they be of help? The answers are in Ann Landers' new booklet "Straight Dope on Drugs." For each booklet ordered send a dollar bill, plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope, (16 cents postage), to Ann Landers, Box 3346, Chicago, Illinois 60654.

N.Y. Says Legalized Abortion Saves Lives

ST. LOUIS (AP) — New York's experience with its liberalized abortion law shows that legalized abortion saves lives, Dr. Alan F. Guttmacher, president of the Planned Parethood Federation of America said Tuesday.

He said that in the first 18 months under the law materal deaths fell from 5.2 for every 10,000 women to a record low of 2.9.

Dr. Guttmacher termination of pregnancy and individual choice eliminates the hazards of clandestine abortions and allows women to end pregnancies which otherwise might result in their deaths.

He said the world is making progress in stemming "the uncontrolled proliferation of human animals."

Birth Control Allowed For Single People

WASHINGTON (AP) — Single people have a right to freely obtain contraceptives if married people are permitted to by the state, the Supreme Court ruled Wednesday in upsetting a conviction of birth control crusader Bill Baird.

"If the right of privacy means anything, it is the right of the individual, married or single, to be free from unwarranted governmental intrusion into matters so fundamentally affecting a person as the decision whether to bear or beget a child," said Justice William J. Brennan Jr.

Brennan, the court's only Roman Catholic, delivered the 6 to 1 opinion that Baird could not be punished by Massachusetts for lecturing at Boston University on birth control and handing a package of vaginal foam to an unmarried woman.

The court was narrowly divided in barring the states from banning contraceptives to single people while permitting them for married people. This holding was on a vote of 4 to 3.

Massachusetts, like 24 other states, restricts single people's access to birth control devices. The state permits married people to obtain contraceptives to prevent pregnancy but allows single people to obtain them only to guard against disease.

Brennan said: "Whatever the rights of the individual to access to contraceptives may be, the rights must be the same for the unmarried and the married alike."

He was supported by Justices William O. Douglas, Potter Stewart and Thurgood Marshall.

Justices Byron R. White and Harry A. Blackmun also voted to upset Baird's conviction largely because they felt the state had not proved that use of vaginal foam can be harmful.

Chief Justice Warren E. Burger stood alone again. He said the only issue before the court was whether Massachusetts had the right to restrict "dispensing medicinal substances." On Tuesday Burger also was isolated in dissent as the court struck down lengthy residency requirements for voting in state and congressional elections.

The two freshmen justices, Lewis F. Powell and William H. Rehnquist, did not participate in the birth control case

Teacher Files Pregnancy Suit

ST. LOUIS (AP)--A suit challenging the St. Louis Board of Education's policy regarding pregnant teachers was filed Wednesday in circuit court.

The rule requires a teacher to leave her classroom duties 140 days before expected delivery.

The suit was filed by Mrs. Joleen Minear, a former Cleveland High School English teacher who is in her seventh month of prgenancy.

In addition to asking that the rule be declared void, Mrs. Minear asks for $6,000 damages--the amount of salary lost through her forced leave of absence, which began Dec. 13.

The policy has been criticized by the American Civil Liberties Union and the St. Louis Teachers Association.

The school administration point of view is that there is a higher rate of absenteeism among pregnant teachers, that it is unsafe for them to climb stairs and it is not desirable for students to see teachers in a state of advanced pregnancy.

Holcomb Students Protest Discharge

KENNETT — Over 100 Holcomb students gathered in the school parking lot Tuesday, protesting the school board's decision to fire Superintendent James Dement.

The group gathered during the lunch hour, alternately chanting "We Want Dement" and lambasting the board's recent actions.

Although a portion of the group threatened to student boycott classes "unless Mr. Dement asks us to do otherwise," declared Mike Hall, the group peacefully disbanded as the noon hour drew to a close, when Dement appeared on the grounds, thanking the youngsters for their show of support.

Walking to the center of the group amidst cheers, Dement climbed atop an automobile and called for the students to return to classes.

"You're not doing any good for the school or yourselves to miss any classes," Dement said. "The way to protest is to do it peacefully and talk with your parents. There's a school election coming up and the way to express your feelings in the proper manner is to show it through the ballot box," he emphasized. "Talk with your parents, urge them to learn the issues at stake and the candidates who are running. Frankly, I feel I've had a bad deal, and while I appreciate your support, I urge you to show it peacefully and properly. Now it's time to get back to your classrooms."

As the group — comprised of junior high and high school students — dispersed, Dement talked about the noontime rally.

"Kids today want to be heard and have a voice in the issues," he said. "However, I am certainly surprised at the large show of support. I just didn't think about getting the students' support," he declared.

Shortly before the noon hour began, an assembly was called by Holcomb Principal Phil Dawson, after word of the noontime rally and threat to boycott classes leaked out. Dawson warned the youths that anyone missing classes would be treated as hooky-players and could face expulsion and disciplinary action.

Keeping a close watch on the rally during the noon hour, Dawson said the students "have every right to express their feelings on the matter, during the lunch hour, but not during class hours." He said he had spelled out the consequences of missing classes for a protest during his earlier assembly. "They are entitled to their beliefs, but we plan to keep emotional issues out of the school day."

When news media representatives arrived, the youths made a mad dash to come into the camera's range, then burst into chants and displayed a sign backing the superintendent.

Donna Dement, the superintendent's daughter, showed one of several petitions which she said was being circulated among the students to show student body support. "We've already got 100 signatures and we're going to get more, and if they'll let us, we're going to take it to the school board and let them know where we stand," a girl at Donna's side declared.

Others mumbled loudly about the possibility of being expelled if they missed afternoon classes. "Can hey really expel us for doing this;" one worried co-ed asked.

Barbara Skaggs answered, "The lawyer said they couldn't do anything if we did it during the lunch hour." When asked to explain, Barbara said she had consulted Dement's attorney, James Ford, by telephone the prior afternoon, "and he told us it would be fine to show our support as long as we didn't miss classes."

Teresa Holbrook echoed the remarks, "Yeh, the lawyer said let our feelings be known to the public and that's just what we're doing."

"Everybody's got to stick together," shouted Debbie Shelby. "The school board never listens to us students. So how do we express our feelings? By doing something drastic like this."

Drastic it wasn't. In fact the lunch hour lacked 10 more minutes being over and one was in violation of school rules yet. The conversation in the crowd switched to theories behind the firing.

Mike Hall, outspoken in his admiration for the superintendent, shouted, "The only way we'll return to class is for Dement to tell us. We listen to him, he's the best superintendent we ever had."

The crowd roared as another smallgroup of students stood apart and silent, watching the proceedings.

"Dement's made this school," Susie Samples declared. "He's helped students get their jobs in the summer," another unidentified youth volunteered.

"Yeh, if we don't get Dement, we don't want anybody," Hall cried out and the cheers began again.

When asked if their parents were in agreement with their support of Dement, there was a slight pause, but a unanimous cheer of yes followed, with one or two small "no's" heard in the background.

After Dement asked the group to return to classes, a reporter stopped one of the students. "So you're not going to miss classes after all?"

The long- haired girl grinned. "I didn't plan on it anyhow. We said we were, but I knew we shouldn't," she laughed, running toward the school building.

Adolescents Get Older Younger

CHICAGO (AP) — A psychiatrist says adolescents are becoming old younger. He advises parents of teen-agers to "get off their backs."

"If you haven't got inside your children in the first 12 or 13 years of life, you never will," says Dr. E. James Anthony, a St. Louis psychoanalyst.

Parental pushing—especially in the middle class—to have children achieve more and more at younger and younger ages is responsible in part for the psychological exhaustion of adolescents, making them depressed and bored, he said.

Anthony, a native of London, holds faculty appointments at Washington University at St. Louis, the Institute for Psychoanalysis in Chicago and the University of Chicago.

The adolescent, Anthony said in an interview expanding on a formal report, "feels not only that he carries his own problems, but the aspirations and ambitions of his parents also."

"Nothing is more aging than this constant pressure," he said. "The load is very hard for him to carry.

Old age is in many respects "a point of view, a particular perspective," Anthony said.

"Oldness, as seen from the perspective of adolescence, has been falling earlier and earlier," he said, citing the case of an adolescent who dreaded reaching the "old age" of 18.

"The aging adolescent and the aging adult have a lot of features in common," the psychoanalyst said.

"For both, the future looks black and unappealing, both are intensely self-absorbed ... both can be extremely hypochondriacal and concerned with their bodies, which is not surprising because, in both, profound bodily alterations are taking place.

The aging adolescent "can be rejuvenated and given a new lease on life," sometimes with professional help, sometimes on his own, said Anthony.

Bruins Big Favorites

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Pupils challenge teachers everyday yet tonight comes a classic in confrontations as John Wooden, and his defending basketball champion UCLA Bruins face Denny Crum and the Louisville Cardinals.

Teacher Wooden must be favored as the undefeated Bruins continue their bid for a sixth straight national collegiate crown and their eighth in nine years.

North Carolina and Florida State meet in the other semifinal, slated to start at 9:10 p.m. EST.

Wooden and his crew face a club coached by a 34-year-old who played at UCLA and assisted the head man for three years when the Bruins won the NCAA crown each season.

Having won so many titles, Wooden was asked what another championship might mean to him, and answered:

"Pride. You want to do the best you can with the group you have. You start living in the past and you're done. You live in the future and you're done. What you do in the present will affect the future."

In Los Angeles, the North Carolina-Florida State meeting naturally takes second billing to UCLA and Louisville. However, the winner will be in the final, scheduled at the Los Angeles Sports Arena on Saturday at 5:10 p.m., EST, Saturday.

Florida State boasts height with sophomore Lawrence McCray at 6-foot 11 and Reggie Royals just an inch shorter.

North Carolina is shorter with Bob McAdoo at 6-9 handling the post position. However, the club has experience and Coach Dean Smith rates it favorably with the 1968 team that went to the NCAA final before losing to UCLA.

McAdoo averaged nearly 20 points per game during the regular season and was followed in the scoring category by senior forward Dennis Wuycik.

North Carolina takes a 25-4 record into the tournament with Florida State at 26-5. UCLA, the leader of The Associated Press poll throughout the season,has a 28-0 mark with Louisville at 26-3.

All four coaches were in agreement that no radical changes will be made either on offense or defense.

"It would be ridiculous to make major changes at this point," said Wooden.

MT. POCONO, Pa. (AP) — Pocono Raceway announced dates Wednesday for two U.S. Auto Club 500-mile races. They are the Pocono 500 July 2 and the Pennsylvania 500 stock car event July 30.

HANOVER, N.H. (AP) — James Brown, a junior guard from New York City who set a Dartmouth College scoring record as a freshman, is the Big Green's basketball captain for the 1972-73 season.

WASHINGTON (AP) —Two Super Bowl players are among the National Football League stars who will participate in a demonstration football game in Paris May 27.

The NFL players Association said middle linebacker Nick Buoniconti of the Miami Dolphins and John Niland of the Dallas Cowboys will lead 42 of the league's top stars in the charity contest.

The demonstration is part of a charity sports week for the benefit of the American Hospital in Paris.

Fishing Contest

More than $500 in prizes await the winners of Wal-Mart's third annual fishing contest, which begins Friday and runs through May 5 with winners in four classes each week.

This annual event has brought out over 150 entries in each class in past years and some of the prize catches have been close to state records.

"All you need to do is bring your fish into our sporting goods department, have it weighed and measured," Charles Free, assistant store manager noted. "The entry can be one caught in any fresh water lake or river in this area."

A $10 gift certificate will be awarded for the largest fish in each division weekly. An Ambassador 5,000C reel is the grand prize in the Black Bass division. Zebco's 909 reel will be awarded as grand prize in the crappie division. A Shakespeare rod and reel is the grand prize in the bream division and a Heddon rod and reel is the top prize in the catfish category.

Mel Davis Out

NEW YORK (AP) — The last time St. John's met Niagara, the Redmen rallied from a 16point deficit for a 93-90 victory—but that was when they had a healthy Mel Davis.

Tonight, though, Davis lies in a hospital room, depriving his teammates of their top scorer and rebounder as they seek a shot at their fifth National Invitation Tournament basketball championship.

St. John's Coach Frank Mulzoff was succinct as he considered playing the Purple Eagles in tonight's semifinal without his 6-foot-7 center. "It'll be like hell on earth for us."

The opener of the doubleheader at Madison Square Garden will have an abundance of big men—Jacksonville's 7-foot center Dave Brent and Maryland's 6-9 pivotman Len Elmore and 6-11 forward Tom McMillen.

Maryland Coach Lefty Driesell believes the championship will be decided by defense "and we are playing very well on defense now. This is our strong suit. McMillen and Elmore have played very well here."

But Jacksonville Coach Tom Wasdin sees things just a bit differently. "The key to this game," he says, "is whether our rebounding holds up and how well our quickness goes against their inside speed."

The Dolphins have an injury problem of their own—scoring leader Ernie Fleming's sprained ankle.

There's no way that Davis can play for St. John's—but if Greg Cluess fills in for him the way he did against Oral Roberts, Davis' absence won't be felt quite so severely.

Davis was brilliant during his 14 minutes, scoring 12 points and grabbing 12 rebounds. But as he drove in for what ended up being his final basket of the game—and probably his final one in the tourney—his knee buckled.

He crashed to the floor writhing in pain so bad he cried. What a few minutes earlier had been just a cramp in his right knee was now a torn tendon. They took him off on a stretcher.

But on came Cluess, a 6-11 reserve who poured in 27 points and hauled in 21 rebounds as the Redmen fought off an Oral Roberts rally to win 94-78.

Urban Fishing Continues

ST. LOUIS — Fisherman -days come in many shapes, sizes and colors. They may be gray and overcast or bright and sunny, cold or warm, wet or dry. They are a statistic and a statistic is impersonal.

It doesn't show the bullheads caught or the pleasure experienced. So, 78,866 fisherman -days doesn't say anything about the joy of fish caught, the heartbreak of fish lost.

But it does tell something about the success of the Urban Fishing Program here, a combined effort of U. S. Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife, the Missouri Department of Conservation and the St. Louis Parks, Recreation and Forestry Department.

The three agencies combined forces in 1969 to stock inner city lakes in St. Louis with fish -- carp and bullheads -- which can be caught by inner city residents who can't afford to go or don't have transportation to outstate fishing areas.

By 1971, usage of the lakes had risen to those 78,866 fisherman-days (a fisherman-day is one fisherman spending all or part of a day at one of the lakes).

The program has had a rocky time or two -- the Conservation Commission spent $15,000 in the spring of 1971 to keep the program going when it appeared it might die for lack of funds and approved another $15,000 in December for the 1972 summer program.

"We consider it money well-spent," says Harry Mills, chairman of the Conservation Commission. "Surveys show that nearly half of the people using these lakes are children -- and remember, these are kids who, in large part, have a pretty rocky life."

The lakes are in O'Fallon, Fairgrounds, Hyde, Forest, Benton and Lafayette Parks. During 1971 , there were 83,850 pounds of fish stocked. Total cost of the Program was $20,250. Virtually all the cost was for purchase of fish. The St. Louis program is a pilot venture and possibly would be expanded to other big cities across the nation. A study of the program by Alexander Ikeda, done for a master's degree at the University of Missouri, concluded:

"The program is worthwhile because it reaches the young and old, the two age groups of people have the greatest amount of leisure during the summer. It provides these people with a recreational activity and a means of emotional release.

"It provides a recreational activity within a city limits and for half of the participants, within walking distance of their homes."

Conservation Commissioner Mills says, "This is a valuable program to us as well because it has demonstrated the workability of an inner city fishing program.

"We'd like to broaden the scope of this program and include other urban areas as well-- in fact, our long-range plans call for a system of 80 urban lakes. The drawback is money, of course. But at least we can point to these lakes and show that the proposed program does work."

One lady, fishing at Fairgrounds Park, told Ikeda, "On a hot day, it's good to sit under the tree and fish and let the breeze blow on you."

New Area

TROY -- The Department of Conservation has named a 157- acre area in Lincoln County the "David Kessler Wildlife Memorial Area" after its donor, the late David Kessler.

Kessler, a bird dog fancier, had managed the land for wildlife values for many years and had a deep interest in conservation. The land was used extensively for conservation education by Bob King, district supervisor of conservation agents, and Paul Johnson, field service agent for east central Missouri.

The new area will have a management plan developed which will include conservation education and demonstration.

Mizzou Spring Grid Drills Begin Monday

COLUMBIA — MIssouri's football Tigers don their pads again Monday for the start of a spring practice that Coach Al Onofrio hopes will be the springboard for "re-capturing a winning attitude".

The Tigers have scheduled their spring work from March 27 through April 29 when a final intra-squad game will climax the 20-workout session. Also on the calendar is a Varsity-Alumni game on April 15, midway through the warm-weather drills.

Mizzou returns 29 lettermen in '72, but Onofrio considers that statistic meaningless. Quality, not numbers, he knows is the prime yardstick in evaluating returnees.

The Mizzou coach terms his offensive outlook "encouraging", but views the massive gaps on defense as "a complete rebuilding program." Ten of last year's defensive regulars are gone.

"I was very pleased with our offensive line's performance at the end of last season." Ononfio points out. "Most of them are back, and we should be getting some help from sophomores, plus junior college transfers."

In the junior college area, three newcomers -- quarterback John Cherry, halfback Leroy Moss and end Jim Sharp -- have been waiting in the wings for a year. They enrolled at Mizzou in January of 1971 -- but were caught up in a revised eligibility rule, delaying their football participation for one calendar year.

Tommy Reamon and Jimmy Smith, both all-American junior college running backs, are two more fancy steppers who should help revitalize the Mizzou ground game. Both have signed Tiger letters -of-intent but won't be on hand this spring.

Missouri's defensive unit is almost a total wipe-out, except for Bob Orsi, the guard who won a starting job as a sophomore, Yet, Onofrio is not unduly concerned.

"We have people who played on defense for two years -- and they'll be further along," he pointed out, "players like Dan McDonough, J. L. Doak, Roger Yanko, Tom Kellett and Dave Austin. Then there are some sophomores who were held out last year, that we're really counting on."

The Missouri coach didn't enumerate these players, but topping the list of eager red-shirts are defensive linemen Dennis Vanarsdall and Scott Pickens -- and fullback Tom Mulkey and lineman Steve Sadich on offense.

The Bengals' coaching staff will have one new fact -- Bob Warmack -- hired in January from the Oklahoma staff. Warmack will coach the quarterbacks -- a still-critical area that never was stabilized in last year's 1-10 campaign.

Ed Johndrow, who lacked consistency in late-season games as a rookie, Cherry, and sophomores to-be Tony Gillick and Jim Goble should be among those working with the top units under Warmack's supervision.

"We'll be making some changes both offensively and defensively," Onofrio promises. "This squad is going to be challenged this spring like no other has since I've been here."

One position change, benefitting the defense, will send Mike Fink -- the nation's No. 5 kickoff returner -- back to the defensive secondary. He played there as a sophomore, moving to slotback last season.

Kareem Abdul-Jabbar of the Milwaukee Bucks had made 291 of the 540 field goal attempts he attempted in playoff games going into this year's post-season competition. That gives him a .539 percentage, best in NBA history for playoff shooting.

Baltimore Clubs Pirate Pitching

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Baltimore Orioles finally got their bats booming against the Pittsburgh Pirates—about five months too late.

The Orioles, held in check by Pirate hurlers Steve Blass, Bruce Kison and Nelson Briles in the 1971 World Series, erupted for 10 runs and 14 hits and whipped the Pirates 10-5 Wednesday in exhibition baseball.

In other games, Los Angeles beat Cincinnati 5-3, Philadelphia edged St. Louis 8-7, the New York Mets defeated the New York Yankees 3-0, Detroit shut out the New York Mets' B team 7-0, Montreal beat Atlanta 7-4 and Boston outscored Houston 11-7.

Also, the Chicago White Sox defeated Minnesota 7-5, Cleveland edged the Chicago Cubs 43, Milwaukee stopped San Francisco 7-3, Kansas City nipped Texas 4-3 and Oakland blanked California 6-0.

Nelson Briles, who hurled a two-hit shutout against the Orioles in the fifth game of the World Series, was the chief victim of the Baltimore outburst. He pitched five innings and was tagged for nine of the Baltimore runs.

Big Boog Powell, who managed only three hits—and no extra base hits—in the Series, slugged two home runs for the Orioles, and Don Buford added another. For Pittsburgh, Willie Stargell, the major league home run leader last season, slugged his first of the spring in the second inning off Mike Cuellar.

Frank Robinson, traded away by Cincinnati six years ago, drove in two runs with a homer and a double as the Dodgers defeated the Reds.

Home runs by Don Money and Deron Johnson helped Philadelphia overcome a 7-2 deficit and defeat the Cards.

Jim McAndrew and Tug McGraw combined to shut the Yankees out on five hits, while Mickey Lolich gave up only one hit in five innings as the Tigers blanked the Mets B team.

Montreal rallied for three runs in the eighth inneng to defeat Atlanta 7-4. Rookie Dwight Evans cracked four hits and Boston collected 15 hits off Astro pitchers in their free-scoring affair. Jorge Orta and Walt Williams drove in three runs apiece to lead the White Sox past Minnesota.

Del Unser's two-out, ninth-inning triple lifted Cleveland past the Cubs, while Milwaukee rallied for five runs in the seventh inning—three of them coming on Darrell Porter's homer—to beat the Giants.

Lou Piniella drove in the winning run for Kansas City with a two-out, seventh inning double, and Jim "Catfish" Hunter team with John "Blue Mon" Odom to shut out California on seven hits for Oakland.

Off the field, the Yankees and Red Sox made a trade which had been rumored for five months. New York sent veteran Danny Cater to the Red Sox, who are looking for a first baseman, in exchange for Sparky Lyle, a lefthanded relief pitcher whose 16 saves in 1971 were four more than the entire New York pitching staff could manage.

DURABLE DOLPH

Dolph Schayes played in 15 NBA playoff series, more than any other player in league history. Bob Cousy, Hal Geer and Bill Russell all played in 13.

King Calls For Groundswell Of Petition Support

ST. CHARLES, Mo. (AP) -- State Rep. R.J. "Bus" King, who is seeking the Republican nomination for governor, called Monday for a groundswell of support on his effort to collect enough signatures for a petition referendum to streamline state government.

King, in a talk to the Republican Women's Club in St. Charles, said he wants it to be a non- partisan effort to get the proposed amendments on the November ballot. King has plan to convert the existing 87 agencies of the state government into 11 more efficient departments responsible to the governor.

If we knew what our life would be before we lived it
And just what the days and years would bring
And of everything that would happen during the years that we would live
And if we knew of all our sickness and just when that it would be and of all our pain
And suffering that we would endure
And if we knew that we would lose our eye sight and could not see our way
But would have to be led by someone wherever that we would go
And if we knew that we would be in a wheel chair for many of our years or that we would be bedfast
And could not help ourselves and if we knew the exact time that our loved ones would die
How could we live out our life span without going insane
And if we also knew when it would come our time to die
How could there be any peace or happiness in all the years that we would live

What's The Law

Flirting No Cause For New Trial

By Jack Strauss, LL. B.

During a heated court battle, there was more ham in the courtroom than in most butcher shops. The two opposing attorneys, exhibiting every known emotion, employed every theatrical gimmick they could think of in trying their case. In fact, the judge even suspected that one of them had even stopped to throwing romantic glances at one or more of the female jurors. Consequently, before the jurors left the courtroom to consider the verdict, the judge warned them:

"Now remember, he said, "stage play acting and flirting with jurors by the lawyers should not be allowed to influence your decision. While flirting may be flattering, it's not evidence."

In due course, the jury returned with their verdict and the losing attorney demanded a new trial on appeal.

"I was accused of being a flirt by the trial judge," he complained. "And since nobody likes a flirt, the jury was prejudiced against me in arriving at their decision. Therefore, I'm entitled to a new trial."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you order a new trial because of the flirtatious accusation?

This is how the judge ruled: NO! The judge held that the complaining lawyer had not been prejudiced since the trial judge did not mention which attorney, if any, had been flirting. What's more, the judge noted, if the complaining attorney was innocent, the jury knew it and no harm was done. On the other hand, if he was guilty, he had no cause to complain. (Based upon a 1949 United States Court of Appeals Decision)

List Of Assets Down To Earth

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) -- Sen. Don Owens, R-Gerald, got down to the earthy details Tuesday when he listed his assets under the state conflict of interest law.

Besides owning some mutual funds and a home at Gerald, he listed:

"Pink seeded- red peel Big Boy hybrid tomato business."

He said he was talking about "my 25 tomato plants. I don't make a profit — just have a lot of fun."

To Day In History

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Thursday, March 23 the 83rd day of 1972. There are 283 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1775, Patrick Henry made a plea for American freedom in a speech before the Virginia provincial convention in Richmond. He declared: "Give me liberty or give me death."

On this date—

In 1743, a London audience that included King George II heard George Frederick Handel's "Messiah" performed for the first time.

In 1919, Benito Mussolini founded a new political movement in Italy.

In 1933, the German Reichstag granted dictatorial powers to Adolf Hitler.

In 1945, in World War II, the U.S. 3rd Army crossed the Rhine River in Germany.

In 1966, the Archbishop of Canterbury, Arthur Michael Ramsey, met Pope Paul VI at the Vatican. It was the first official meeting between the heads of the Anglican and Roman Catholic churches in more than four centuries.

Ten years ago: The French government used fighter planes and tanks to try to end an insurrection by European right-wingers in Algeria.

Five years ago: The U.S. space agency suspended training of Apollo astronauts pending the results of an investigation of a fire on the Cape Kennedy launching pad in January.

One year ago: 80,000 farmers from European countries demonstrated for higher prices in Brussels, Belgium.

ANNAS

A master plotter within the religious community of Judea and its capital, Jerusalem, was the high priest, Annas. Living under the shadow of Rome, and under the civil authority of the governor, the high priest nevertheless had enormous power and control. He headed the Sadducees, a conservative group of elders and priests who directed the affairs of the Temple and represented the wealth and vested interests of the Jews.

Annas held the office of high priest for nine years, being deposed in favor of Caiaphas, his son-in-law. Yet he was never out of touch or in fear of losing power. His five sons became high priests and during the trial of Jesus he was the senior dignitary before whom the Prophet was brought for questioning. He also threatened the apostles and their followers when they testified to the Resurrection. Annas represented corrupt religion and his contest with Jesus was vicious and inevitable.

Kiwanians Told About Work Shop

B. W. Gunn, general manager of the Community sheltered work shop, told the Kiwanis club Tuesday night at the Ramada Inn, it is one of 38 in Missouri sponsored by the state board of education.

Jesse Lacefield introduced Gunn.

The United States labor department governs the pay rate and work conditions. The program is designed for the mentally retarded in the Scott, New Madrid, Mississippi, and Stoddard counties.

A few of the workers have gone through high school, Gunn said, but many have only a fifth grade education. They are people who deserve to work and want to work.

"Forty are enrolled in the workshop and are doing a good job," he said, "but there is a waiting list of 25 in Scott county."

Gunn makes contacts with industry and gives bids on contract jobs for the packaging of wedges and screws. In 12 months the workshop has packaged five million wood wedges and ten million metal wedges.

The school started March 17 as a non profit business. Through the contracts wages are paid, overhead is taken care of and there is a surplus to operate with.

A van was donated to the workshop to transport 14 people a day from Dexter. Other organizations have donated vans to transport people in their areas and a grant has been made to provide for more transportation.

Three people were employed originally to oversee the workers, now there are six. The state requires the workers to work six hours a day and the pay rates vary with the top salary being $1.75 a day.

For the program to be successful the workers must feel they are earning their salary. Many of the workers now have a Social Security card. Doctors say the benefits of the program are great, Gunn said.

Some of the companies the workshop has had contracts with are ILX, Todd Laundry, National Lock Company and Transogram.

Gunn said that the state pays $2 a day for each worker and donations help finance the program.

Charley Johnson was a guest of the club. Jim Stallings gave a report on ticket sales for Pancake day next Tuesday. Next Tuesday's meeting has been cancelled due to Pancake day.

Helsabeck Resigns

CANTON, Mo. (AP) — Dr. Fed Helsabeck, president of Culver-Stockton College the past 16 years, has submitted his resignation, effective after the 1972-73 school year.

Leece said a committee has been appointed to begin screening candidates for the position.

The 63-year-old Helsabeck said he plans to return to classroom teaching following his retirement.

During his administration the college has grown from 325 students and assets of $1.4 million to more than 850 students and assets of more than $5 million.

In two other grass fires yesterday firemen were called at 1:35 p.m. to 205 Lee St., where burning trash set fire to grass. No damage was done.

At 3 p.m., firemen were called to Applegate. Firemen report it was caused by a burning trash barrel. No damage was done.

Madrid Man Shot To Death

NEW MADRID — Leeland Morlan, 59, was shot to death at 10 a.m. today by a pistol bullet which entered the right side of his chest near his shirt pocket.

A .22 caliber pistol was found near his body lying face down in the kitchen of his home at 1025 Mott St., police reported.

He lived with his mother, Daisy Morlan, who was at home at the time.

Police are investigating.

Compromise Ahead for Bill

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — A Senate billboard bill headed today for possible compromise settlement in a HouseSenate conference committee.

Sen. J. F. Patterson, D-Caruthersville, president pro tem, ruled Sen. Robert A. Young, DSt. Ann, had no right to strike his bill from the calendar at this time.

When the Senate voted Wednesday to ask the House for a conference, Patterson said, that meant the Senate, technically, no longer had possession of the bill. Therefore, Young's motion to kill it in disgust was out of order.

It was one more development in what has become the 1972 legislature's most tangled maze.

A tired and exasperated House Roads and Highways Committee approved a bill Wednesday night to take the heat off Missouri on billboard control under the Highway Beautification Act and avert loss of $11.5 million in federal highway funds.

The bill offered the Missouri House of Representatives today is identical to one the Senate agreed to take to conference Wednesday before Sen. Robert A. Young, D-St. Ann, threw up his hands and asked that his entire bill be stricken from the calendar.

Rep. Walter Meyer, D-Bellefontaine Neighbors, committee chairman, said "All we tried to do was to get a backup proposal" as a vehicle to get to a House-Senate conference.

Time is running out. Legislators have one week to satisfy the U.S. Department of Transportation and put Missouri into federal conformity or face a temporary freeze on this year's federal funds.

The bill adopted Wednesday night still leaves unresolved the big problem — who is going to pay for billboards that have to be torn down?

Atty. Gen. John C. Danforth got into the act Wednesday saying highway funds could not be used to pay billboard owners. Use of the funds, derived from gasoline tax, he said, would be "clearly unconstitutional."

Robert L. Hyder, chief counsel for the state Highway Department, offered the House committee a substitute bill he said conformed with D.O.T. requirements and met with the approval of the attorney general's staff and "industry affected."

Four in Diehlstadt Race

DIEHLSTADT — Four have filed for three positions on the town board in the April 4 election.

It was incorrectly reported to the Daily Standard that Kenneth Belt filed for city clerk. Belt has filed for town board.

Others seeking town board positions are James Howard, Lawrence Burton and Len Allen.

Delta Council Charts Course

Missouri Delta Council directors meeting today at the Holiday Inn will develop the organizational framework and priorities of activities for the council's future programs of work.

On the agenda is election of officers, approval of by-laws, making plans for the annual meeting, and a session to select programs for the council.

Jack Hutchison, Caruthersville, executive vice president, summarized the opinions of directors and those who elected them:

"We need a purely constructive Missouri Delta Area organization, directed and financed in a democratic manner by our area -wide Delta population.

"It should have no purpose of profit, with no semblance of governmental or large organizational restricted lines of communication and procedure -- an organization that can dynamically foster greater unity of thought -- that can and will promote and protect our best interests in a positive, cooperative, remedial, unemotional, nonpartisan manner both within and without our area."

In commenting on the organized effort to serve the area, Arline Avery, agricultural representative of the Bank of New Madrid and a farm management specialist said, "This council could fill the need for a coordinating agency for the general economy of the territory, if funded and staffed properly."

Seal Coat Contracts Let

JEFFERSON CITY — The Missouri State Highway Commission has awarded contracts totaling $51,797.25 for seal coat shoulder treatment along Interstate and primary highways in Mississippi and Scott counties to Missouri Petroleum Products Company of Overland.

The contracts call for seal coat shoulder treatment in Mississippi County along 10.4 miles of Interstate Route 57 from the Scott County line to Missouri Route 77, along one mile of Missouri Route 105 from Charleston south to Interstate Route 57, and along .44 mile of Route B from Bertrand south to Insterstate Route 57, and in Scott County along 1.9 miles of Interstate Route 57 from Interstate Route 55 to the Mississippi County line and along .28 mile of U. S. Route 60 from Route AA to Interstate Route 55.

The projects will be carried on under the direction of the Highway Department's District 10 office in Sikeston. William H. Shaw is district engineer in district 10 and G. B. Chullino is construction engineer. T. W. Graham is the department resident engineer assigned to the projects.

Bids on the projects were received by the highway department Feb. 22 along with bids on about $15 million worth of other projects.

BUSINESS IS BRISK at a white elephant sale Wednesday for benefit of the Jimmy Henderson fund during psychology class in Mrs. Sarah Dyke's room at New Madrid high school. Funds totaling $503.33 to aid their classmate stricken Sunday with a cerebral hemmorhage have been collected by the students.

$503 Raised for Stricken Boy

NEW MADRID — New Madrid high school students spearheading a Jimmy Henderson Fund campaign report $503.33 collected in 24 hours after a public appeal was made.

Henderson, 15, a freshman, is in intensive care at Baptist Hospital in Memphis, where he was in emergency surgery five hours Monday after being stricken Sunday with a cerebral hemmorage. His condition remains serious but he is slightly improved. He may be able to leave intensive care soon.

Funds received as individual donations and proceeds from a white elephant sale Wednesday in Mrs. Sarah Dyke's classroom. A bouquet made and donated by Mrs. Delmar Hammett netted $40 in a contest in her classes.

Praising the youths for their response and enthusiasm in aiding young Henderson Mrs. Dyke said "you just can't beat these students."

Activities planned for Jimmy Henderson Day Saturday by the student body include a bake sale, roadblocks, car wash, yard cleaning, window washing, baby sitting or odd jobs of any type. Persons may telephone 748-5576 to obtain any of these services. The car wash will start at 8 a.m. Saturday at the Bank of New Madrid parking lot.

In addition to personal donations, service clubs and organizations are being contacted for contributions or to sponsor fund raising projects.

Persons making contributions by mail may make checks payable to the Jimmy Henderson Fund and send to Charles B. Baker, post office box 177, New Madrid, Mo. 63869

Back Slapping No Lure to Industry

The days when a city could attract industry by back slapping executives and buying them a round of drinks are over, according to Charles Matthews.

Matthews, president of the Sikeston Industrial Development Corporation, spoke to the Lions Club yesterday. The SIDC was formed in 1954 to help bring industry to the city and to help keep the Anchor Toy Company in operation.

Matthews said today's businessman wants to talk to utilities and school superintendents and other community leaders.

He told the Lions the SIDC is careful in its selection of enterprises it seeks. Sikeston doesn't need a firm beset with labor or financial problems, Matthews said. He added, the SIDC is careful not to bring polluters to the city.

Why does industry want to locate in Sikeston? Because productivity is high here, Matthews said, and because the interstate highways, railroads and the river, provide an excellent transportation system. Also, he added, the vocational schools impress many businessmen.

There are enough problems to frighten many of the businessmen away. Sikeston does not have a large pool of skilled labor. Kentucky has lower electric rates and Arkansas has a right- to- work law. Also, Matthews said, the proximity of Cairo and its racial problems have frightened some prospects.

Matthews told the Lions that Malone and Hyde will add 50,000 square feet to its building and about 25 new jobs.

Caproco Company, he said, now employes 314 with a $1 million plus payroll. Caproco was a marginal firm in St. Louis but grew when it moved to Sikeston, he said.

Matthews said he hopes soon to be able to announce two new firms are moving to the city. One already has bought land and agreed to move here.

Death Case To Court

NEW MADRID — Earnest David Hampton, 38, of Parma Wednesday was ordered bound over to circuit court for appearance May 1 on a manslaughter charge following a preliminary hearing before Scott County Magistrate Lloyd G. Briggs.

Judge Briggs ordered $5,000 bond continued.

Hampton is charged in the death Feb. 23 of Thomas L. Byrd one and one half miles south of Marston on highway 61, when he was crushed between two cars after Hampton drove off the highway and struck the rear of one car.

Testimony was heard from Mrs. Lauren Byrd, widow of the victim, and highway patrol troopers Robert Little and Randal Bess.

Mrs. Byrd testified she and her husband were returning from Portageville to Marston between 8 p.m. and 8:30 p.m. when a Toyota she was driving quit running. She said she drove off the highway onto the shoulder on the east side. The two then walked to their trailer home in Marston and returned to the stalled car in her 1964 Ford.

Mrs. Byrd said her husband parked the Ford on the shoulder facing the Toyota. Her husband, she said, was between the two cars using jumper cables to start the Toyota, She was seated in the Toyota.

Shortly after the Toyota was started Mrs. Byrd said there was a crush from the rear by a car being driven by Hampton.

She said the Toyota was shoved over the Ford, went across the highway and into a field on the left side of the highway.

Mrs. Byrd testified Hampton appeared to be drunk and that she could smell liquor. She said that she yelled at him to find her husband when she couldn't see him after the accident and that Hampton "just sat there behind the steering wheel of his car."

Trooper Little testified as to the locations and damages of the three vehicles. He said debris from the crash was on the shoulder of the highway about two feet from the edge of the pavement. Little said Hampton, in his opinion, was intoxicated and he placed him under arrest for driving while intoxicated.

Trooper Bess testified he brought Hampton to the New Madrid county jail for a breathalyzer test. Bess said he advised Hampton of his constitutional rights and that Hampton telephoned an attorney before the test was given.

The test, Bess, said, made at 9:35 p.m. had a reading of .15 per cent alcohol content, which indicated intoxication.

Judge Briggs, named to serve at the hearing after the disqualification of New Madrid country Magistrate Judge Leo Hedgepeth, announced his decision after Hampton's attorney made a statement that the state did not prove any criminal negligence was involved and the testimony presented was conclusions and not substantiated.

Byrd had been employed since November at the power plant construction site in St. Jude Industrial Park near Marston.

The family had moved to Parma from Warrenton in January.

Biggest Jump In 14 Years

Grocery Prices Up

WASHINGTON (AP) — The biggest jump in grocery prices in 14 years last month triggered the sharpest rise in overall living costs since before President Nixon imposed economic controls, the government reported today.

The Consumer Price Index, measuring typical family living costs, rose five-tenths of one per cent in February, the largest increase in nine months, the Labor Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics said.

Grocery prices, which include a number of items that are not subject to federal price controls, soared 1.9 per cent for the greatest one-month increase since March of 1968, the report said.

The report followed the resignation of three AFL-CIO members of Nixon's s Pay Board, who charged the government was rigidly holding down wages while letting prices continue to climb.

The bureau also reported that average weekly earnings of some 45 million rank-and-file workers rose 35 cents a week to $130.27, but that purchasing power declined 24 cents because of the rise in consumer prices.

The February boost pushed the price index up to 123.8 per cent of its 1967 average. This means it cost $12.38 last month for every $10 worth of typical family purchases five years ago.

The February increase was the greatest since a six-tenths of one per cent rise last June, two months before Nixon imposed a 90-day wage-price freeze which was then followed by Phase 2 controls.

The bureau said that, so far in the four months of Phase 2, living costs have risen at an annual rate of 4.9 per cent, greater than the 4.1 per cent rate in the six months before Nixon's August economic freeze.

Prices had been held to an annual rate of 1.7 per cent during the rigid three-month freeze that preceded the looser Phase 2 controls.

Price hikes in February included two-tenths of one per cent for housing, four-tenths each for clothing and medical care and one-tenth of one per cent for recreation.

Transportation costs declined six-tenths of one per cent, the report said.

A steep rise in meat prices, it said, accounted for about 70 per cent of the big rise in food prices.

Fresh fruits and vegetables also rose considerably. Dairy products rose instead of declining as usual in February, and cereal and bakery products went up for the first time in four months, the report said.

Raw agricultural products, such as fruits and vegetables and eggs, are exempt from federal price controls.

Other increases included local transit fares, property taxes and natural gas rates, although the increases were smaller, it said.

Residential telephone and electrical service rates continued to rise sharply.

Mortgage interest rates declined, and so did automobile and gasoline prices, the report said.

State and local taxes and interest rates are also exempt from federal price controls.

The bureau said about onefifth of the over-all rise in February living costs was due to items exempt from price controls.

City Utility Office Will Move in April

The city light and water company will move from its location on New Madrid and Front streets to new offices in the old police station, 140 North Prairie, in April, according to Dick Inman, director of municipal utilities.

Inman said the move was being made "because the present location is not adequate for us to perform the services we want to extend."

Inman said the new location will have a drive- in window, two night deposit boxes, and will include administrative, engineering, billing and warehousing operations.

The old police station building is being remodled and a new 20 by 80 foot section has been built between the warehouse and the station. The total cost of the renovation will be between $60, and $75,000, Inman said.

Inman said the company's building on the corner of New Madrid and Front is owned by the utility and probably will be sold.

Three Arrests

Police announced three arrests were made yesterday:

Charles Marion Kaiser, 203 Selma, was arrested on a charge of public intoxication.

Frances Marie Brown, 202 Dona St. for destroying public property. She was turned over to Scott County authorities for driving while intoxicated.

Betty Lou Williams, route one, New Madrid, for driving while intoxicated. She was turned over to Scott County for not having a driver license.

Bogus Checks Passed at Three Stores

Police charged that a man calling himself Richard Russell Marshall, or Russell L. Marshall, took three area furniture stores for between $200 - $300 yesterday when he paid for furniture with bogus checks.

The stores were Rudy's Furniture Co., Lewis Furniture Co., both of Sikeston, and Hy McWilliams Furniture Co. of Poplar Bluff.

In each case the man would select about $900 worth of furniture and pay for the purchase with a $1,000 check. He then left with nearly $100 in change, saying he would pick up the furniture later.

The man was described as 55-60, about five feet 11 inches tall, 150 pounds, having gray hair, and wearing a dark suit and a yellow shirt.

Charleston Man Fined

CHARLESTON — Levi Kelly, 61, of Charleston, was arrested Wednesday on a charge of public intoxication and failure to obey a reasonable request of a police officer.

Judge Frank Gillespie fined him $16 in city court this morning.

Grass Fire

CHARLESTON — The fire department made one run at 11:35 a.m. Wednesday to extinguish a grass fire at the corner of fifth and Sherman Streets. The fire was started by burning trash.

WILL OUR FREEDOM
BROADCASTS DIE?

Radio Free Europe and Radio Liberty are about to be liquidated. They broadcast the news and truth beyond the Iron Curtain — a service of inestimable importance to some 200 million persons. Radio Free Europe has been broadcasting each day to Eastern Europe since 1950. Radio Liberty has been reaching out to millions of listeners in the Soviet Union since 1951. The stations are privately operated with assistance from the United States Government. Funds for these operations ran out last month. The stations are now in imminent danger of closing up.

Senator J. William Fulbright takes the position that President Nixon's pledge not to interfere in the internal affairs of Communist China makes further support of the radio stations in Europe "incomprehensible." Mr. Fulbright's attitude makes it clear that the far Left in the Democratic party takes the Nixon-Chou communique as a signal for the collapse of all future efforts to present the American point of view to any Communist country.

Yet both houses of Congress have already approved the continuation of these radio stations. The bill approved by the House differed little from that adopted by the Senate. But it was necessary to send the matter to conference. The differences concern how long the programs shall continue, and how the funding is to be handled. Mr. Fulbright leads the opposition of three of the five Senators in the conference.

The intransigent attitude of the Fulbright group is that the radio stations are relics of the cold war. Representative Peter Frelinghuysen of New Jersey asserts:

"If three Senators should be successful in killing these programs it will have been because of their manipulation of the legislative process, in definance of the expressed desire of both the House and the Senate to have these programs continue. This is most unfortunate."

Let us not leave the matter there. Speak up!

IMPROVING GI
BILL BENEFITS

About 917,000 veterans are attending some form of college under the GI Bill this year. The current $175-a-month stipend may sound generous to the World War II veterans who remember receiving $75 a month but, in fact, the Viet Nam veteran has it much worse. Annual benefits in 1947-48 included up to $500 a year to the World War II vet's school to meet tuition payments. Today's veteran must pay for his tuition out of the $175-a-month stipend.

Moreover, U. S. News & World Report notes (March 20, 1972) that another round of tuition hikes scheduled for next autumn "will add hundreds of dollars a year to basic bills at colleges all over the country." Even at the public colleges, state residents commonly must pay from $400 to $600 in annual tuition.

The entire subject of GI Bill benefits will be taken up when the Senate Veterans Committee opens hearings on Thursday, March 23. Before the committee is a House-passed bill that would increase the GI Bill stipend to $200 a month. But pressure is building for a direct tuition payment in addition. Sen. Vance Hartke (D Ind.) the committee chairman, is reported (Washington Post, March 14, 1972) to be leaning toward such an approach.

Any further benefits will be costly. With some 1.9 million veterans receiving GI Bill benefits of all kinds, the Veterans Administration will pay out more than $2 billion for education, training and rehabilitation in the current fiscal year. If the House - passed $200-a-month stipend legislation becomes law, the total for fiscal 1973 will reach $2.3 billion or more. Since 1969, total education and training benefits will have increased by 250 per cent.

HUNGRY TO BED

Do you know how many people go to bed hungry each night? One million? Two million? Colorado State University's "Pesticide Pipeline" reports two billion people — that's two-thirds of the world's population — have an insufficient food supply. This hunger leads to 10,000 deaths from starvation every day. Undernourished children and adults become victims of diseases the average person probably has never seen or heard of, or die from illnesses which our well-nourished bodies fight off with ease.

NORANDA ONE YEAR LATER
By Jack Stapelton, Jr.

It was just one year ago that the St. Louis Globe-Democrat published a front-page, eight- column -wide "expose" of labor conditions at the Noranda industrial complex in the Bootheel.

The "facts" as presented by the St. Louis newspaper stood in great contrast to the actual conditions at the New Madrid industrial facility which were correctly reported several days earlier by this newspaper. The St. Louis newspaper's story, however, contained a wide variety of rumors, distortions and untruths that made it appear as if Noranda were embroiled in a highly-emotional labor situation that threatened to disrupt progress for the state's largest industrial acquisition.

Well, what has happened at Noranda after one year?

Perhaps the Globe-Democrat would be interested in knowing that despite its amazingly inaccurate "expose" of conditions there, the aluminum plant is in operation and has been operating for months without a single labor disturbance.

Perhaps the Glob-Democrat would be interested in knowing that despite its distortion-filled "expose," progress has been amazingly swift in construction of the huge power plant at Noranda which, when completed, will be the third largest power source in the entire state of Missouri.

Perhaps the Globe-Democrat would be interested in knowing that despite its poorly written "expose," the Noranda Company has decided to enlarge certain of its facilities, giving lie to the contention of the St. Louis newspaper that the firm was disenchanted with the Bootheel and with the so-called "labor unrest."

The truth of the matter is - and was - the company experienced far less labor difficulties than the St. Louis newspaper claimed for it. There were some jurisdictional problems, created primarily by St. Louis unions, but these had to do with construction work at the plant, not the operation of the plant itself.

In an editorial a year ago, this newspaper suggested that perhaps one explanation for the Globe Democrat's sudden interest in the Bootheel could be traced to the strong interest of a major St. Louis company in locating near the Noranda complex. We suggested at the time that the newspaper, at the behest of St. Louis business interests, wrote its story for the primary purpose not of informing its readers - which it did not do - but in convincing the interested industry the labor conditions were notoriously bad in the Bootheel. We may well have been correct inview of the fact that the St. Louis company called off its proposed move despite the best efforts of local and state industrial experts to correct the jaundiced impressions left by the Globe-Democrat.

There was some evidence to support this newspaper's view that the Globe "expose" was actually written by a reporter who never visited the Bootheel industrial site. There has been no evidence to the contrary ever presented by the newspaper.

One year after its "expose," we feel certain the Globe -Democrat will be interested in writing another story, this one giving the correct facts and correcting the erroneous ones that the newspaper has permitted to stand for 12 months.

We await the corrected story with great interest.

But no assurance that it will ever come to pass.

SAVE YOUR
1972 CALENDAR

Hold onto your 1972 calendars, folks. According to the World Almanac's perpetual calendar, the identical arrangement of days and dates will repeat itself in the year 2000.

(A 1944 or 1916 calendar will do just as well, if you still have one of those. Which means, by the way, that this is the first time this century that this particular calendar has begun without a World War in full swing.)

For those looking forward to ringing in a new century, it's good to realize that New Years's Day, 2000, will fall on a Saturday, as it did this year. That will leave a whole weekend to recuperate, though maybe by that time there will be a one-day work week and a six-day weekend.

By BILLIE BROWN

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Eighteenth century London had its White Hart pub, where Dr. Samuel Johnson, Sir Joshua Reynolds, Alexander Pope and other neoclassics gathered for learned discourse and a draught of ale.

Modern-day Atlanta has the Stein Club—the only bar in the world, as far as its habitues can determine, that holds an annual spelling bee.

On a Friday night, it packs in more academic degrees per square inch than you could measure with a slide rule.

Hence the spelling bee, forcing Stein Club regulars who dispute and debate year round over draft beer to put up or sit down each January.

The Second Annual Stein Club Orthographic Open was held in the back room of the bar. This reporter went to kibitz and stayed to conquer—beating an economic geographer, an engineer with a masters degree in Middle English literature, an architect, last year's winner— the state Public Serice Commission reporter—and 15 other contestants—by correctly spelling "phthisic," "gyve," "pyrrhic" and "jodhpur."

This display of orthographic pre-eminence earned me the No. 2 engraving on the Annual Orthographic Open plaque that hangs over the Stein Club bar, a case of beer, a hand-struck silver medal and a certificate.

Wearing my seventh-grade spelling medal from Bad Breuznach, Germany, for confidence, I made my way through the obscure hubbub in the main room to the back and took my place among the 200 spelling enthusiasts.

As the zero hour of 8:15 approached, someone passed out sheets of yellow foolscap. Sergeant at arms Wilson Paige called for order.

Twenty beer glasses hit the table, twenty ballpoint pens poised over yellow foolscap, and the race was on.

The end of Round 1 spelled heartache and intellectual humiliation for 12 contenders. Round 2 eliminated four and Round 3, two more.

I was still in.

My tablemates, hors de combat, rallied round, bending to peer as I wrote "thysic," and again as I scratched it out and substituted "phthisic."

"Gnathion"—which, pronouncer Paul Niblock explained, denotes "the lower midportion of the human mandible"—stumped me. But it stumped my last remaining opponent, Martha van Dusenberg, too.

The final score was 48 to 45 of a possible 50 words. I bungled "balalaika" in Round 2.

"The winner is—Billie Brown!" Cheers. The sound of beer pouring. Applause.

"It's another blow for women's lib," cried the '71 champion, male chauvinist Dick Price.

"Too bad for Price," commented timekeeper Robert Hatcher as he congratulated me. "He wanted us just to go ahead and have ditto marks engraved on the plaque this year."

HARD TO UNDERSTAND THIS

Years ago, our nation had the mistaken notion in elections that "as Maine goes, so goes the nation." That theory has been exploded several times, in fact, in one election, a candidate for national office carried only one state - Maine.

Now we're getting to the point where we believe that whatever happens in the New Hampshire primary will happen all over the nation.

It doesn't make sense. New Hampshire is about the size of Monroe County, or not much larger. Its people, steeped in eastern backgrounds, do not think like the rest of us in the midwest or west or south.

We ought to either refute the idea that the New Hampshire primary is so important, or demand that all presidential primaries be eliminated, or that all states hold them at the same time.

Either would be fairer to our national candidates, regardless of their party or their following. — Paris Appeal.

MOON VERSUS POOR

The never-ending fight of various groups for a larger share of the pie of federal spending reached the ultimated inanity with the charge that, "The U. S. spent $24 billion to go to the moon, Nixon wants to spend only $4 billion to help the poor." The facts of the "Moon versus the poor" controversy, as contained in a late issue of U. S. News and World Report, paint a different picture of tax dollar distribution. The U. S. is currently spending $19 billion a year in direct aid to the poor from federal, state and local governments. This does not include spending for other services shared by people at all income levels. Nor does it include private charity. By contrast, the $24 billion spent to reach the moon was expended over a period of 10 years -- $2.4 billion per year. If the new welfare program as proposed by the Nixon Administration becomes law, total governmental spending for the poor in the U. S. will increase to $23 billion a year.

Aside from the financial arithmetic of moon flights versus government spending for the poor, U. S. space exploration represents the progress of a nation still growing in stature and vitality. All of us, including the poor, are benefactors of this growth. Instead of kicking, we should be proud. We have to progress to take care of the poor.

THIEF IN HEN HOUSE

Everybody kicks about taxes. Yet, strangely, even while evidencing explosive resentment toward any taxpayer who allegedly escapes his share of taxes, we remain indifferent to the tax avoidance of commercial government enterprises built with taxpayers' money as substitutes for taxpaying private enterprise. This indifference is most notable in the electric industry where states, municipalities, and the federal government go into business in the guise of providing "Cheap Power" -- power that is cheap solely because somebody else makes up the taxes escaped by the government business ventures.

What it means to a community when a taxpaying power company invests its own funds in expansion is well illustrated in the remarks of an official of a typical power company on the occasion of the announcement of a $48 million expansion program by his company. After pointing out that the company was asking nothing from any government agency, he said that by the expansion the company would put into the county tax collector's hands nearly $400,000 when the new plant is complete. Even now, his company pays county taxes annually of approximately $350,000. In commenting on the growth of this investor-owned company, the local newspaper reminds its readers that investor-owned power companies"...do these epic feats by their own initiative and funding -- not by government grants, supports, subsidies, and other insidiously attractive shiboleths of unnecessary statist intervention in the economy, which ultimately become obstacles in the way of the spirit of free enterprise and private initiative."

When will the tax-conscious taxpayers wake up to the fact that government is the biggest chicken thief in the tax hen house?

NO END TO INFLATION WHILE DEFICIT SPENDING CONTINUES

In his Economic Report, President Nixon stated that price and wage controls would be retained until "reasonable price stability can be maintained without controls." Yet the economic measures advocated by the Administration practically guaranteed that inflation will continue.

The Administration is deliberately planning a huge deficit of $25.5 billion for the next fiscal year. President Nixon said: "This deficit is strong medicine.... but we have taken it in order to give a powerful stimulus to employment."

Planned deficits almost always end up higher than planned: this fiscal year's estimated $11.6 billion deficit has already ballooned to $28 billion and will probably grow at least another $10 billion before the fiscal year has ended.

Although this deficit is justified as a spur to the economy, the first and most important effect of any government deficit is inflation. As any shopper knows, price controls have not kept prices from rising. With deficit spending continuing and in fact deliberatly increased, prices are sure to rise even more.

In 1970, the President indicated in his budget message that he understood the connection between deficit spending and inflation: "I have pledged to the American people tht I would submit a balanced budget for 1971. This is particularly necessary because the cost of living has been rising rapidly for the past five years.... The surplus...is essential both to stem persistent inflationary pressures and to relieve hard-pressed financial markets.

The President and his financial advisers should be reminded of these words. Our citizens will never be free from "inflationary pressures" so long as vast government spending programs produce budget deficits.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON — The White House, in its effort to discredit us and Whitewash the international telephone and telegraph (ITT) scandal, is conducting a massive undercover campaign.

The manpower has been drawn from the White House, justice department, republican national committee and the committee for the re-election of the president (caps C.R.P.).

Even the justice department's internal security division (ISD), which is supposed to investigate spies and saboteurs, has been put on our trail.

Dozens of government gumshoes, presidential aides and political flunkies have been assigned to investigate us, to prepare attacks on us and to plant stories in the press against us.

ITT has also retained the world's most famous and formidable private investigating firm, intertel, to assist with the investigation. This is the same outfit that broke Swiss Bank secrecy and exposed Clifford Irving's phony autobiography of billionaire Howard Hughes.

Intertel submits its inestigative reports to ITT, which has made them available to the White House. Presidential aides, in turn, have fed the material to republican senators for use against us.

INCRIMINATING MEMO

Here's the incredible, behind-the-scenes story:

At first, the strategy was to discredit Dita Beard, the salty-tongued ITT lobbyist, who wrote the incriminating memo suggesting there had been a link between the settlement of ITT's antitrust cases and a commitment from ITT to help finance the Republican Convention.

Her physician, Dr. Victor L. Liszka, conferred with justice department officials Harlington Wood, Jr., and John T. Duffner on the eve of his appearance at the Senate hearing. He testified that Mrs. Beard had told him she wrote the memo but was "mad and disturbed" at the time.

When this tack failed, the president's men tried to peddle the idea that we had conspired with Dita Beard to concoct the damaging Memo. This was planted with Sen. Marlow Cook, R-Ky., who rushed out with a statement questioning "The Veracity of Anderson's account of how he obtained the Memorandum and perhaps even on the origin and content of the memorandum itself."

One of the justice department's counterspies, John Martin, Internal security analysis and evaluation (caps A.E.) chief, tried to establish a link between Dita Beard and US. Intertel's president, Robert Peloquin, and his chief Gunshoe, Ed Mullin, also worked on this angle.

Their "evidence" was routed through the White House to Senator Cook. This, too, backfired.

Then began the belated campaign to reverse the Doctor's testimony and to persuade Mrs. Beard to change her story. An active and ardent California republican, David W. Fleming, appeared as Mrs. Beard's attorney. He held a series of meetings with top republicans and ITT officers in Washington, then issued a notarized statement signed by the poor woman claiming the memo was a forgery.

WHITE HOUSE WARRIORS

This latest "evidence" significantly, was released in Washington by senate republican leader Hugh Scott. Flemming also made statements to the press that sounded more as if he were representing the Nixon administration than Dita Beard.

Meanwhile, president Nixon's new deputy communications director, Ken. W. Clawson, has been handling press strategy. He has advised Senator Cook and contacted newsmen in an attempt to promote stories against us.

Two other White House aides, Jonathan Rose and George Crawford, also slipped around to Sen. Norris cotton's office with a draft speech for the New Hampshire republican to deliver on the Watt affair. Senators Barry Goldwater and Paul Fannin, both Arizona republicans, also delivered speeches that were prepared by the republican national committee.

ARMY HEART

It isn't often that we can report a heartwarming human story about the army. But such is the case of Captain and Mrs. David Kelley and their four-year-old son, David, Jr.

Since age one, young David has had a form of cancer known as Wilm's tumor. Until now, he has received excellent treatment at Walter Reed Army Hospital. But recently his father, presently stationed at Ft. Lee, Va., was notified he would have to leave the service because of personnel cuts.

The family could not afford continued medical treatment, so they petitioned the Army to permit David to continue receiving medical care from the military.

The Kelleys feel the army is at least partially responsible for their son's condition. Mrs. Kelley was ten weeks pregnant with David when she had an automobile accident. She was repeatedly X-rayed at an Army hospital and some doctors think the X-rays could have had something to do with David's disease.

The cancer was discovered on David's kidney when he was but a year old. It was removed, but another one was soon found on his lung. David was treated with cobalt and chemicals, to no avail. Part of the right lung was cut out.

Then last year, physicians had to remove a growth from David's intestine. They found other tumors on his forehead and spinal cord and treated them with radiation and surgery.

The plucky youngster is now confined to a wheelchair, but he is beginning to walk again. Years of expensive treatment lie ahead, treatment that the Kelleys cannot afford once the father leaves the military.

Recently, acting secretary Kenneth Belieu ruled favorably on the Kelley's petition. It is good to be reminded once in a while that the Army has a heart.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

Secret Golf Game: Inside Story: Meany, Nixon Cool it publicly in duel for 30 per cent GOP labor vote

WASHINGTON — Behind the scenes, far from the roar of the crowd whipped up by the ever-more primordial primaries, two political craftsmen with two of this nation's most skilled political minds are dueling quietly. The prize is the White House of 1973.

This contest between President Nixon and AFL-CIO President George Meany, I do believe, will decide the November elections far more than will even the most significant of primaries. At stake for starters is about 30 per cent of America's union members who traditionally vote Republican and can make or break Mr. Nixon's candidacy.

Mr. Nixon wants to keep them. Mr. Meany wants to swing them. Yet so subtle is Meany's strategy that, should the President win in spite of official labor's toughest opposition in decades, Meany will come out of it all as merely the political not personal enemy of the President in his final term.

Thus there are Meany's off-the-record conversations with many of his own supreme Executive Council on his personal eagerness once and for all to walk off the Pay Board, be rid of the whole complex of creaking Phase Two stabilization machinery.

And yet quietly, in the best Kissinger style, Meany slipped off with Budget and Management Director George Shultz, Mr. Nixon's most trusted home front adviser, to play golf for several days at the Augusta National Golf Course. This was some two weeks ago.

It may well be that Meany likes golf. Shultz likes golf. They like the old Eisenhower cottage links. And so they played golf and Shultz topped the cigar chomper. But silent they weren't as they went round and round together.

Some days after this secret -- or at least unreported -- rendezvous, Meany breakfasted with President Nixon (March 10). I'm privileged to report some facts. Off the record is off the record. But after more than an hour of amiable, chuckling conversations and deep briefing by National Security Adviser Dr. Kissinger, Meany turned to the President and switched subjects.

Neither man had forgotten the acrid name calling. Or that labor's high council had told the President he knew what he could do if he didn't like labor's action. And that Meany and colleagues would "get the hell" off the Pay Board if they didn't like his, or its, position.

Meany has a supreme sense of the political maneuver and can cool things, surprisingly enough, with charm when he wishes. And he wished. Quietly, in the President's family dining room, he told the President he did not believe the Pay Board could "do the job." He blamed the industry-public members voting coalition. He said that wages were locked in and prices were not being controlled.

And with a smile, received reciprocally, Meany wound up with, "And, that, Mr. President, is my beef for the day." And coming from Meany, the President knew it was weighty. He was expecting the AFL—CIO's three Pay Board members to take a walk. If this wasn't what Meany was saying, then he has gone out of the signal-sending business. Phast Two was about to get a dumping, the President believed.

But there was no hostility. These men are pros. Some of Mr. Nixon's insiders had criticized his decision to invite Meany in after the labor chief had angered much of the public during the battle of Bal Harbour. But the President is not about to alienate much of the labor movement which he believes was and is still with him. So there were smiles and thank-yous and Meany returned to his "eighth floor" rampart to marshal his assault on the President and the Pay Board.

A few days later he scheduled the emergency AFL-CIO Executive Council session over the Longshoremen's contract crisis. He never moves unless he has the votes. He spoke at length with Pay Board member, steel union president I.W. Abel, just before the latter flew to Japan. Abe said, okay, he'd go along with whatever Meany advocates. Later I checked with another Pay Board member, Machinists and aerospace leader Floyd "Red" Smith. Said he:

"I'm for pulling out of the Pay Board. I see no sense in staying during this chaos. We are locked in on collective bargaining. They cut us (aerospace) down and the West Coast longshoremen. So I'm for walking off."

There in profile you have the story behind the Wednesday Executive Council session. But why the Meany ambivalence? Why so privately friendly with Shultz and the President and so publicly angry? Because Meany sees himself locked in on the Pay Board. The 10 business and public members have the majority. Thus Meany and his colleagues don't have "the votes" on the board with which to deliver to a carnivorous rank and file. The labor people need leverage to demonstrate they are not part of the freeze on wages and the thaw on prices which apparently no one can help without a 75,000-man (and woman) bureaucracy.

This they must demonstrate, they decided. But not in the head-hitting fashion of Bal Harbour. Not in the personal attacks. After all, Mr. Nixon may well be President next year.

Single Term Votes Listed

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Here is the Senate roll call vote sending to the House a constitutional amendment going back to the old one-term rule for governors:

For—Avery, Blackwell, Gant, Johnson, Joynt, Keating, Lee, Linehan, Merrell, Noland, Owens, Patterson, Pentland, Skelton, Tinnin, Waters, Webster, Wilson, Young. Total 19.

Against—Bradshaw, Brancato, Cason, Cox, Esely, Howard, Jones of St. Louis County, Jones of Kansas City, Manford, Payne, Schechter, Schneider, Spradling, Vanlandingham. Total 14.

Senate Favors Return To One-Term Governor

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The Missouri Senate first defeated, then reversed itself and passed a constitutional amendment Wednesday reverting to the old one-term limitation for Missouri governors.

The first vote was 16-14, two short of the necessary 18 majority. The Senate immediately reconsidered that action on a 23-9 vote, then sent the proposal to the House on a 19-14 vote.

There was no debate, although the plan had caused a heated argument earlier.

Today Sen. Earl R. Blackwell, D-Hillsboro, merely said that he wanted to detract some of the power from the executive branch and add to the power of the legislative branch.

He had said earlier that the two-term plan approved by the voters in 1965 hadn't worked. Opponents argued then that the state should keep the two-term rule until it has more experience with it.

Gov. Warren E. Hearnes sponsored the two-term amendment during his first term, then became the first governor ever elected to succeed himself for two four-year terms.

Also passed and sent to the House on a 22-9 vote was a bill to raise the pay of major Missouri judges by $10,000 a year. There was no debate. An emergency clause to make it effective immediately lost, 6-26.

Earlier a new controversy over the embattled billboard control bill raised doubts whether it could be passed before a March 31 deadline for loss of $11.5 million in federal highway funds.

Passed and sent to the governor, 25-0, was a bill to make the state pay the full costs of distributing surplus food commodities. Counties now pay 20 per cent of the cost but many have said they would have to abandon the free food program because they don't have the money.

If a county wanted to participate in local management of the program, it would have the option of paying 15 per cent of the cost.

The estimated state cost this year would be $310,772 and next year $840,000. The bill carries an emergency clause to make it effective as soon as it is signed by the governor, who recommended such a law.

Also sent to the governor was a bill to raise salaries for employes in probate courts of second class counties.

Passed and sent to the House were measures to:

Lower the alcohol level found in the blood to 10 hundredths of 1 per cent as evidence the suspected driver is intoxicated.

Provide a schedule of state income tax revisions following the federal income tax guidelines.

Add a judge to the Springfield Court of Appeals.

Increase county library taxes from 20 to 30 cents on the $100 valuation if the voters approve.

Allow a county court to add two former welfare recipients to county welfare commissions.

Put farmers mutual insurance companies under regulation of the Division of Insurance.

Bar chiropractors from advertising their services, the same as other doctors.

PERKINS IN LEAD

NEW YORK (AP) — Tony Perkins has been signed by producers Frank Perry and Dominick Dunne for the leading role of a film producer in "Play It As It Lays," for Universal. Filming began in December in Hollywood and will continue in Las Vegas.

Patterson Opposes Hike

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Here is the Senate roll call vote on increasing the pay of major judges by $10,000 a year:

For—Avery, Blackwell, Bradshaw, Brancato, Cason, Esely, Gant, Jones of St. Louis County, Jones of Kansas City, Joynt, Keating, Lee, Linehan, Manford, Payne, Pentland, Schechter, Skelton, Spradling, Tinnin, Webster, Young. Total 22.

Against—Cox, Howard, Johnson, Merrell, Owens, Patterson, Schneider, Vanlandingham, Waters. Total 9.

A Minute Means More Than You May Think

By AP Newsfeatures

Did you ever stop to think how much a minute is worth and what it means to you and your company?

An examination of the Department of Labor's hourly wage scales show that today non-supervisory workers in industry are making an average of $3.36 an hour for 36.9 hour week. Although industry is primarily concerned with the work day from an hourly standpoint, some interesting figures crop up when the minute is scrutinized.

A look at the traditional 10-minute coffee break or those five minutes generally taken each day to chat with fellow employees is a dramatic illustration.

The $3.36 per hour average wage is equal to 5.6 cents per minute and multiplying it through against the coffee break and office chatter time you come up with $218 over the course of a year. That's over 1-3/4 weeks salary for the worker earning $3.36 an hour or $123.98 a week.

The middle management executive earning $20,000 a year is clicking off the minutes to the tune of 16.7 cents per, or $725 a year in coffee breaks and chatting alone.

Should you want to calculate your own per minute value the formula is simple and quite obvious. Just determine your hourly wage rate based on the number of hours you work each week and divide by 60.

"It's amazing what a disparity there is between how much time a person thinks he spends doing various tasks related to his work and the actual time involved," says Harry B. Henshel, president of Bulova Watch Co.

"Everyone can benefit from an analysis of his typical day.

Ann Landers

Playing Doctor Not Funny At 17

Dear Ann Landers: I am so furious I don't know what to do. I need your help. Last weekend we had a family reunion. The house was full of relatives and I was busy in the kitchen a good bit of the time.

A 17-year-old nephew seemed to be hanging around our five-year-old daughter. I didn't give it much thought until later in the day when they both were missing. I started to check the rooms. Well, I caught the boy "playing doctor" with our little girl. She had all of her clothes off and he was "examining her." I expressed my anger in unmistakable langauge. What burned me up more than anyting was his casual atttitude. "I was just messing around," he said. "What are you so excited about?"

He asked me to do him a favor and not mention the matter to his mother. So far I haven't said anything to anyone. My husband would thrash the boy within an inch of his life if he knew. I don't know what his own father would do. Am I making a mistake by keeping this to myself? Please give me some advice, Ann. I'm very upset. --- St. Louis Dilemma

Dear Dilemma: When two little kids "play doctor" it's nothing to become alarmed about -- but a 17-year-old boy is no little kid. You should do two things. First, explain to your little girl that her body is private and she should not allow anybody to take liberties with it. Instruct her to tell you at once she should not allow anybody to take liberties with it. Instruct her to tell you at once if anyone tries. Second, tell the boy's mother what occurred. If he is making a practice of "messing around" with little girls his parents should take him for psychological testing and treatment if it is indicated.

Dear Ann Landers: Howdo you tell someone you love that a personality trait of his drives people up the wall? Jim is so slow in conversation that it takes tremendous self control to keep from shrieking, "For Lord's sake hurry up and get to the point!" You know what he is going to say long before he says it. Friends and relatives suffer in silence. Their discomfort is apparent to everyone but Jim.

Employers are not so compassionate. Jim just lost his seventh job in four years and he is very depressed. He has no concept of how he comes across to others, in spite of the hints. He considers himself methodical and blames the job losses on "people who are out to get him."

This trait is ruining our lives and I'm so worried I'm sick. I can't bear to hurt his pride by telling him he's so slow he irritates people beyond belief and that only friends and relatives will put up with it. --- Sign Me Ill And Tired Because I'm Both

Dear Ill and Tired: For the love of heaven TELL HIM in plain language exactly what you have told me. Your silence is hurting him worse than anything you might say. Perhaps he cannot conquer the habit completely, but he should be told so he can go to work on it.

Dear Ann Landers: There are several girls in our family and we all have children under three years of age. Will you please settle something? Should we leave porcelain figurines, crystal ashtrays, and fragile knickknacks within reach of busy little hands and try to teach the children not to touch? Or is it better to put nice things away until the children are older? --- P.A.M.

Dear P.A.M.: When my own daughter was a toddler I never put anything out of her reach. I taught her not to touch them. Margo has trained her three children the same way. The only important loss I ever suffered was a crack in a Dorothy Doughty figurine --- by a 55-year-old guest from Seattle.

Are drugs O.K. if you learn how to control them? Can they be of help? The answers are in Ann Landers' new booklet "Straight Dope on Drugs." For each booklet ordered send a dollar bill, plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope, (16 cents postage), to Ann Landers, Box 3346, Chicago, Illinois 60654.

N.Y. Says Legalized Abortion Saves Lives

ST. LOUIS (AP) — New York's experience with its liberalized abortion law shows that legalized abortion saves lives, Dr. Alan F. Guttmacher, president of the Planned Parethood Federation of America said Tuesday.

He said that in the first 18 months under the law materal deaths fell from 5.2 for every 10,000 women to a record low of 2.9.

Dr. Guttmacher termination of pregnancy and individual choice eliminates the hazards of clandestine abortions and allows women to end pregnancies which otherwise might result in their deaths.

He said the world is making progress in stemming "the uncontrolled proliferation of human animals."

Birth Control Allowed For Single People

WASHINGTON (AP) — Single people have a right to freely obtain contraceptives if married people are permitted to by the state, the Supreme Court ruled Wednesday in upsetting a conviction of birth control crusader Bill Baird.

"If the right of privacy means anything, it is the right of the individual, married or single, to be free from unwarranted governmental intrusion into matters so fundamentally affecting a person as the decision whether to bear or beget a child," said Justice William J. Brennan Jr.

Brennan, the court's only Roman Catholic, delivered the 6 to 1 opinion that Baird could not be punished by Massachusetts for lecturing at Boston University on birth control and handing a package of vaginal foam to an unmarried woman.

The court was narrowly divided in barring the states from banning contraceptives to single people while permitting them for married people. This holding was on a vote of 4 to 3.

Massachusetts, like 24 other states, restricts single people's access to birth control devices. The state permits married people to obtain contraceptives to prevent pregnancy but allows single people to obtain them only to guard against disease.

Brennan said: "Whatever the rights of the individual to access to contraceptives may be, the rights must be the same for the unmarried and the married alike."

He was supported by Justices William O. Douglas, Potter Stewart and Thurgood Marshall.

Justices Byron R. White and Harry A. Blackmun also voted to upset Baird's conviction largely because they felt the state had not proved that use of vaginal foam can be harmful.

Chief Justice Warren E. Burger stood alone again. He said the only issue before the court was whether Massachusetts had the right to restrict "dispensing medicinal substances." On Tuesday Burger also was isolated in dissent as the court struck down lengthy residency requirements for voting in state and congressional elections.

The two freshmen justices, Lewis F. Powell and William H. Rehnquist, did not participate in the birth control case

Teacher Files Pregnancy Suit

ST. LOUIS (AP)--A suit challenging the St. Louis Board of Education's policy regarding pregnant teachers was filed Wednesday in circuit court.

The rule requires a teacher to leave her classroom duties 140 days before expected delivery.

The suit was filed by Mrs. Joleen Minear, a former Cleveland High School English teacher who is in her seventh month of prgenancy.

In addition to asking that the rule be declared void, Mrs. Minear asks for $6,000 damages--the amount of salary lost through her forced leave of absence, which began Dec. 13.

The policy has been criticized by the American Civil Liberties Union and the St. Louis Teachers Association.

The school administration point of view is that there is a higher rate of absenteeism among pregnant teachers, that it is unsafe for them to climb stairs and it is not desirable for students to see teachers in a state of advanced pregnancy.

Holcomb Students Protest Discharge

KENNETT — Over 100 Holcomb students gathered in the school parking lot Tuesday, protesting the school board's decision to fire Superintendent James Dement.

The group gathered during the lunch hour, alternately chanting "We Want Dement" and lambasting the board's recent actions.

Although a portion of the group threatened to student boycott classes "unless Mr. Dement asks us to do otherwise," declared Mike Hall, the group peacefully disbanded as the noon hour drew to a close, when Dement appeared on the grounds, thanking the youngsters for their show of support.

Walking to the center of the group amidst cheers, Dement climbed atop an automobile and called for the students to return to classes.

"You're not doing any good for the school or yourselves to miss any classes," Dement said. "The way to protest is to do it peacefully and talk with your parents. There's a school election coming up and the way to express your feelings in the proper manner is to show it through the ballot box," he emphasized. "Talk with your parents, urge them to learn the issues at stake and the candidates who are running. Frankly, I feel I've had a bad deal, and while I appreciate your support, I urge you to show it peacefully and properly. Now it's time to get back to your classrooms."

As the group — comprised of junior high and high school students — dispersed, Dement talked about the noontime rally.

"Kids today want to be heard and have a voice in the issues," he said. "However, I am certainly surprised at the large show of support. I just didn't think about getting the students' support," he declared.

Shortly before the noon hour began, an assembly was called by Holcomb Principal Phil Dawson, after word of the noontime rally and threat to boycott classes leaked out. Dawson warned the youths that anyone missing classes would be treated as hooky-players and could face expulsion and disciplinary action.

Keeping a close watch on the rally during the noon hour, Dawson said the students "have every right to express their feelings on the matter, during the lunch hour, but not during class hours." He said he had spelled out the consequences of missing classes for a protest during his earlier assembly. "They are entitled to their beliefs, but we plan to keep emotional issues out of the school day."

When news media representatives arrived, the youths made a mad dash to come into the camera's range, then burst into chants and displayed a sign backing the superintendent.

Donna Dement, the superintendent's daughter, showed one of several petitions which she said was being circulated among the students to show student body support. "We've already got 100 signatures and we're going to get more, and if they'll let us, we're going to take it to the school board and let them know where we stand," a girl at Donna's side declared.

Others mumbled loudly about the possibility of being expelled if they missed afternoon classes. "Can hey really expel us for doing this;" one worried co-ed asked.

Barbara Skaggs answered, "The lawyer said they couldn't do anything if we did it during the lunch hour." When asked to explain, Barbara said she had consulted Dement's attorney, James Ford, by telephone the prior afternoon, "and he told us it would be fine to show our support as long as we didn't miss classes."

Teresa Holbrook echoed the remarks, "Yeh, the lawyer said let our feelings be known to the public and that's just what we're doing."

"Everybody's got to stick together," shouted Debbie Shelby. "The school board never listens to us students. So how do we express our feelings? By doing something drastic like this."

Drastic it wasn't. In fact the lunch hour lacked 10 more minutes being over and one was in violation of school rules yet. The conversation in the crowd switched to theories behind the firing.

Mike Hall, outspoken in his admiration for the superintendent, shouted, "The only way we'll return to class is for Dement to tell us. We listen to him, he's the best superintendent we ever had." The crowd roared as another smallgroup of students stood apart and silent, watching the proceedings.

"Dement's made this school," Susie Samples declared. "He's helped students get their jobs in the summer," another unidentified youth volunteered.

"Yeh, if we don't get Dement, we don't want anybody," Hall cried out and the cheers began again.

When asked if their parents were in agreement with their support of Dement, there was a slight pause, but a unanimous cheer of yes followed, with one or two small "no's" heard in the background.

After Dement asked the group to return to classes, a reporter stopped one of the students. "So you're not going to miss classes after all?"

The long- haired girl grinned. "I didn't plan on it anyhow. We said we were, but I knew we shouldn't," she laughed, running toward the school building.

Adolescents Get Older Younger

CHICAGO (AP) — A psychiatrist says adolescents are becoming old younger. He advises parents of teen-agers to "get off their backs."

"If you haven't got inside your children in the first 12 or 13 years of life, you never will," says Dr. E. James Anthony, a St. Louis psychoanalyst.

Parental pushing—especially in the middle class—to have children achieve more and more at younger and younger ages is responsible in part for the psychological exhaustion of adolescents, making them depressed and bored, he said.

Anthony, a native of London, holds faculty appointments at Washington University at St. Louis, the Institute for Psychoanalysis in Chicago and the University of Chicago.

The adolescent, Anthony said in an interview expanding on a formal report, "feels not only that he carries his own problems, but the aspirations and ambitions of his parents also."

"Nothing is more aging than this constant pressure," he said. "The load is very hard for him to carry.

Old age is in many respects "a point of view, a particular perspective," Anthony said.

"Oldness, as seen from the perspective of adolescence, has been falling earlier and earlier," he said, citing the case of an adolescent who dreaded reaching the "old age" of 18.

"The aging adolescent and the aging adult have a lot of features in common," the psychoanalyst said.

"For both, the future looks black and unappealing, both are intensely self-absorbed ... both can be extremely hypochondriacal and concerned with their bodies, which is not surprising because, in both, profound bodily alterations are taking place.

The aging adolescent "can be rejuvenated and given a new lease on life," sometimes with professional help, sometimes on his own, said Anthony.

Bruins Big Favorites

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Pupils challenge teachers everyday yet tonight comes a classic in confrontations as John Wooden, and his defending basketball champion UCLA Bruins face Denny Crum and the Louisville Cardinals.

Teacher Wooden must be favored as the undefeated Bruins continue their bid for a sixth straight national collegiate crown and their eighth in nine years.

North Carolina and Florida State meet in the other semifinal, slated to start at 9:10 p.m. EST.

Wooden and his crew face a club coached by a 34-year-old who played at UCLA and assisted the head man for three years when the Bruins won the NCAA crown each season.

Having won so many titles, Wooden was asked what another championship might mean to him, and answered:

"Pride. You want to do the best you can with the group you have. You start living in the past and you're done. You live in the future and you're done. What you do in the present will affect the future."

In Los Angeles, the North Carolina-Florida State meeting naturally takes second billing to UCLA and Louisville. However, the winner will be in the final, scheduled at the Los Angeles Sports Arena on Saturday at 5:10 p.m., EST, Saturday.

Florida State boasts height with sophomore Lawrence McCray at 6-foot 11 and Reggie Royals just an inch shorter.

North Carolina is shorter with Bob McAdoo at 6-9 handling the post position. However, the club has experience and Coach Dean Smith rates it favorably with the 1968 team that went to the NCAA final before losing to UCLA.

McAdoo averaged nearly 20 points per game during the regular season and was followed in the scoring category by senior forward Dennis Wuycik.

North Carolina takes a 25-4 record into the tournament with Florida State at 26-5. UCLA, the leader of The Associated Press poll throughout the season,has a 28-0 mark with Louisville at 26-3.

All four coaches were in agreement that no radical changes will be made either on offense or defense.

"It would be ridiculous to make major changes at this point," said Wooden.

Fishing Contest

More than $500 in prizes await the winners of Wal-Mart's third annual fishing contest, which begins Friday and runs through May 5 with winners in four classes each week.

This annual event has brought out over 150 entries in each class in past years and some of the prize catches have been close to state records.

"All you need to do is bring your fish into our sporting goods department, have it weighed and measured," Charles Free, assistant store manager noted. "The entry can be one caught in any fresh water lake or river in this area."

A $10 gift certificate will be awarded for the largest fish in each division weekly. An Ambassador 5,000C reel is the grand prize in the Black Bass division. Zebco's 909 reel will be awarded as grand prize in the crappie division. A Shakespeare rod and reel is the grand prize in the bream division and a Heddon rod and reel is the top prize in the catfish category.

Mel Davis Out

NEW YORK (AP) — The last time St. John's met Niagara, the Redmen rallied from a 16point deficit for a 93-90 victory—but that was when they had a healthy Mel Davis.

Tonight, though, Davis lies in a hospital room, depriving his teammates of their top scorer and rebounder as they seek a shot at their fifth National Invitation Tournament basketball championship.

St. John's Coach Frank Mulzoff was succinct as he considered playing the Purple Eagles in tonight's semifinal without his 6-foot-7 center. "It'll be like hell on earth for us."

The opener of the doubleheader at Madison Square Garden will have an abundance of big men—Jacksonville's 7-foot center Dave Brent and Maryland's 6-9 pivotman Len Elmore and 6-11 forward Tom McMillen.

Maryland Coach Lefty Driesell believes the championship will be decided by defense "and we are playing very well on defense now. This is our strong suit. McMillen and Elmore have played very well here."

But Jacksonville Coach Tom Wasdin sees things just a bit differently. "The key to this game," he says, "is whether our rebounding holds up and how well our quickness goes against their inside speed."

The Dolphins have an injury problem of their own—scoring leader Ernie Fleming's sprained ankle.

There's no way that Davis can play for St. John's—but if Greg Cluess fills in for him the way he did against Oral Roberts, Davis' absence won't be felt quite so severely.

Davis was brilliant during his 14 minutes, scoring 12 points and grabbing 12 rebounds. But as he drove in for what ended up being his final basket of the game—and probably his final one in the tourney—his knee buckled.

He crashed to the floor writhing in pain so bad he cried. What a few minutes earlier had been just a cramp in his right knee was now a torn tendon. They took him off on a stretcher.

But on came Cluess, a 6-11 reserve who poured in 27 points and hauled in 21 rebounds as the Redmen fought off an Oral Roberts rally to win 94-78.

Urban Fishing Continues

ST. LOUIS — Fisherman -days come in many shapes, sizes and colors. They may be gray and overcast or bright and sunny, cold or warm, wet or dry. They are a statistic and a statistic is impersonal.

It doesn't show the bullheads caught or the pleasure experienced. So, 78,866 fisherman -days doesn't say anything about the joy of fish caught, the heartbreak of fish lost.

But it does tell something about the success of the Urban Fishing Program here, a combined effort of U. S. Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife, the Missouri Department of Conservation and the St. Louis Parks, Recreation and Forestry Department.

The three agencies combined forces in 1969 to stock inner city lakes in St. Louis with fish -- carp and bullheads -- which can be caught by inner city residents who can't afford to go or don't have transportation to outstate fishing areas.

By 1971, usage of the lakes had risen to those 78,866 fisherman-days (a fisherman-day is one fisherman spending all or part of a day at one of the lakes).

The program has had a rocky time or two -- the Conservation Commission spent $15,000 in the spring of 1971 to keep the program going when it appeared it might die for lack of funds and approved another $15,000 in December for the 1972 summer program.

"We consider it money well-spent," says Harry Mills, chairman of the Conservation Commission. "Surveys show that nearly half of the people using these lakes are children -- and remember, these are kids who, in large part, have a pretty rocky life."

The lakes are in O'Fallon, Fairgrounds, Hyde, Forest, Benton and Lafayette Parks. During 1971 , there were 83,850 pounds of fish stocked. Total cost of the Program was $20,250. Virtually all the cost was for purchase of fish. The St. Louis program is a pilot venture and possibly would be expanded to other big cities across the nation. A study of the program by Alexander Ikeda, done for a master's degree at the University of Missouri, concluded:

"The program is worthwhile because it reaches the young and old, the two age groups of people have the greatest amount of leisure during the summer. It provides these people with a recreational activity and a means of emotional release.

"It provides a recreational activity within a city limits and for half of the participants, within walking distance of their homes."

Conservation Commissioner Mills says, "This is a valuable program to us as well because it has demonstrated the workability of an inner city fishing program.

"We'd like to broaden the scope of this program and include other urban areas as well-- in fact, our long-range plans call for a system of 80 urban lakes. The drawback is money, of course. But at least we can point to these lakes and show that the proposed program does work."

One lady, fishing at Fairgrounds Park, told Ikeda, "On a hot day, it's good to sit under the tree and fish and let the breeze blow on you."

New Area

TROY -- The Department of Conservation has named a 157- acre area in Lincoln County the "David Kessler Wildlife Memorial Area" after its donor, the late David Kessler.

Kessler, a bird dog fancier, had managed the land for wildlife values for many years and had a deep interest in conservation. The land was used extensively for conservation education by Bob King, district supervisor of conservation agents, and Paul Johnson, field service agent for east central Missouri.

The new area will have a management plan developed which will include conservation education and demonstration.

Mizzou Spring Grid Drills Begin Monday

COLUMBIA — MIssouri's football Tigers don their pads again Monday for the start of a spring practice that Coach Al Onofrio hopes will be the springboard for "re-capturing a winning attitude".

The Tigers have scheduled their spring work from March 27 through April 29 when a final intra-squad game will climax the 20-workout session. Also on the calendar is a Varsity-Alumni game on April 15, midway through the warm-weather drills.

Mizzou returns 29 lettermen in '72, but Onofrio considers that statistic meaningless. Quality, not numbers, he knows is the prime yardstick in evaluating returnees.

The Mizzou coach terms his offensive outlook "encouraging", but views the massive gaps on defense as "a complete rebuilding program." Ten of last year's defensive regulars are gone.

"I was very pleased with our offensive line's performance at the end of last season." Ononfio points out. "Most of them are back, and we should be getting some help from sophomores, plus junior college transfers."

In the junior college area, three newcomers -- quarterback John Cherry, halfback Leroy Moss and end Jim Sharp -- have been waiting in the wings for a year. They enrolled at Mizzou in January of 1971 -- but were caught up in a revised eligibility rule, delaying their football participation for one calendar year.

Tommy Reamon and Jimmy Smith, both all-American junior college running backs, are two more fancy steppers who should help revitalize the Mizzou ground game. Both have signed Tiger letters -of-intent but won't be on hand this spring.

Missouri's defensive unit is almost a total wipe-out, except for Bob Orsi, the guard who won a starting job as a sophomore, Yet, Onofrio is not unduly concerned.

"We have people who played on defense for two years -- and they'll be further along," he pointed out, "players like Dan McDonough, J. L. Doak, Roger Yanko, Tom Kellett and Dave Austin. Then there are some sophomores who were held out last year, that we're really counting on."

The Missouri coach didn't enumerate these players, but topping the list of eager red-shirts are defensive linemen Dennis Vanarsdall and Scott Pickens -- and fullback Tom Mulkey and lineman Steve Sadich on offense.

The Bengals' coaching staff will have one new fact -- Bob Warmack -- hired in January from the Oklahoma staff. Warmack will coach the quarterbacks -- a still-critical area that never was stabilized in last year's 1-10 campaign.

Ed Johndrow, who lacked consistency in late-season games as a rookie, Cherry, and sophomores to-be Tony Gillick and Jim Goble should be among those working with the top units under Warmack's supervision.

"We'll be making some changes both offensively and defensively," Onofrio promises. "This squad is going to be challenged this spring like no other has since I've been here."

One position change, benefitting the defense, will send Mike Fink -- the nation's No. 5 kickoff returner -- back to the defensive secondary. He played there as a sophomore, moving to slotback last season.

Kareem Abdul-Jabbar of the Milwaukee Bucks had made 291 of the 540 field goal attempts he attempted in playoff games going into this year's post-season competition. That gives him a .539 percentage, best in NBA history for playoff shooting.

Baltimore Clubs Pirate Pitching

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Baltimore Orioles finally got their bats booming against the Pittsburgh Pirates—about five months too late.

The Orioles, held in check by Pirate hurlers Steve Blass, Bruce Kison and Nelson Briles in the 1971 World Series, erupted for 10 runs and 14 hits and whipped the Pirates 10-5 Wednesday in exhibition baseball.

In other games, Los Angeles beat Cincinnati 5-3, Philadelphia edged St. Louis 8-7, the New York Mets defeated the New York Yankees 3-0, Detroit shut out the New York Mets' B team 7-0, Montreal beat Atlanta 7-4 and Boston outscored Houston 11-7.

Also, the Chicago White Sox defeated Minnesota 7-5, Cleveland edged the Chicago Cubs 43, Milwaukee stopped San Francisco 7-3, Kansas City nipped Texas 4-3 and Oakland blanked California 6-0.

Nelson Briles, who hurled a two-hit shutout against the Orioles in the fifth game of the World Series, was the chief victim of the Baltimore outburst. He pitched five innings and was tagged for nine of the Baltimore runs.

Big Boog Powell, who managed only three hits—and no extra base hits—in the Series, slugged two home runs for the Orioles, and Don Buford added another. For Pittsburgh, Willie Stargell, the major league home run leader last season, slugged his first of the spring in the second inning off Mike Cuellar.

Frank Robinson, traded away by Cincinnati six years ago, drove in two runs with a homer and a double as the Dodgers defeated the Reds. Home runs by Don Money and Deron Johnson helped Philadelphia overcome a 7-2 deficit and defeat the Cards.

Jim McAndrew and Tug McGraw combined to shut the Yankees out on five hits, while Mickey Lolich gave up only one hit in five innings as the Tigers blanked the Mets B team.

Montreal rallied for three runs in the eighth inning to defeat Atlanta 7-4. Rookie Dwight Evans cracked four hits and Boston collected 15 hits off Astro pitchers in their free-scoring affair. Jorge Orta and Walt Williams drove in three runs apiece to lead the White Sox past Minnesota.

Del Unser's two-out, ninth-inning triple lifted Cleveland past the Cubs, while Milwaukee rallied for five runs in the seventh inning—three of them coming on Darrell Porter's homer—to beat the Giants.

Lou Piniella drove in the winning run for Kansas City with a two-out, seventh inning double, and Jim "Catfish" Hunter team with John "Blue Mon" Odom to shut out California on seven hits for Oakland.

Off the field, the Yankees and Red Sox made a trade which had been rumored for five months. New York sent veteran Danny Cater to the Red Sox, who are looking for a first baseman, in exchange for Sparky Lyle, a lefthanded relief pitcher whose 16 saves in 1971 were four more than the entire New York pitching staff could manage.

DURABLE DOLPH

Dolph Schayes played in 15 NBA playoff series, more than any other player in league history. Bob Cousy, Hal Geer and Bill Russell all played in 13.

King Calls For Groundswell Of Petition Support

ST. CHARLES, Mo. (AP) -- State Rep. R.J. "Bus" King, who is seeking the Republican nomination for governor, called Monday for a groundswell of support on his effort to collect enough signatures for a petition referendum to streamline state government.

King, in a talk to the Republican Women's Club in St. Charles, said he wants it to be a non- partisan effort to get the proposed amendments on the November ballot. King has plan to convert the existing 87 agencies of the state government into 11 more efficient departments responsible to the governor.

If we knew what our life would be before we lived it
And just what the days and years would bring
And of everything that would happen during the years that we would live
And if we knew of all our sickness and just when that it would be and of all our pain
And suffering that we would endure
And if we knew that we would lose our eye sight and could not see our way
But would have to be led by someone wherever that we would go
And if we knew that we would be in a wheel chair for many of our years or that we would be bedfast
And could not help ourselves and if we knew the exact time that our loved ones would die
How could we live out our life span without going insane
And if we also knew when it would come our time to die
How could there be any peace or happiness in all the years that we would live

What's The Law

Flirting No Cause For New Trial

By Jack Strauss, LL. B.

During a heated court battle, there was more ham in the courtroom than in most butcher shops. The two opposing attorneys, exhibiting every known emotion, employed every theatrical gimmick they could think of in trying their case. In fact, the judge even suspected that one of them had even stopped to throwing romantic glances at one or more of the female jurors. Consequently, before the jurors left the courtroom to consider the verdict, the judge warned them:

"Now remember, he said, "stage play acting and flirting with jurors by the lawyers should not be allowed to influence your decision. While flirting may be flattering, it's not evidence."

In due course, the jury returned with their verdict and the losing attorney demanded a new trial on appeal.

"I was accused of being a flirt by the trial judge," he complained. "And since nobody likes a flirt, the jury was prejudiced against me in arriving at their decision. Therefore, I'm entitled to a new trial."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you order a new trial because of the flirtatious accusation?

This is how the judge ruled: NO! The judge held that the complaining lawyer had not been prejudiced since the trial judge did not mention which attorney, if any, had been flirting. What's more, the judge noted, if the complaining attorney was innocent, the jury knew it and no harm was done. On the other hand, if he was guilty, he had no cause to complain. (Based upon a 1949 United States Court of Appeals Decision)

He said he was talking about "my 25 tomato plants. I don't make a profit — just have a lot of fun."

ANNAS

A master plotter within the religious community of Judea and its capital, Jerusalem, was the high priest, Annas. Living under the shadow of Rome, and under the civil authority of the governor, the high priest nevertheless had enormous power and control. He headed the Sadducees, a conservative group of elders and priests who directed the affairs of the Temple and represented the wealth and vested interests of the Jews.

Annas held the office of high priest for nine years, being deposed in favor of Caiaphas, his son-in-law. Yet he was never out of touch or in fear of losing power. His five sons became high priests and during the trial of Jesus he was the senior dignitary before whom the Prophet was brought for questioning. He also threatened the apostles and their followers when they testified to the Resurrection. Annas represented corrupt religion and his contest with Jesus was vicious and inevitable.

Kiwanians Told About Work Shop

B. W. Gunn, general manager of the Community sheltered work shop, told the Kiwanis club Tuesday night at the Ramada Inn, it is one of 38 in Missouri sponsored by the state board of education.

Jesse Lacefield introduced Gunn.

The United States labor department governs the pay rate and work conditions. The program is designed for the mentally retarded in the Scott, New Madrid, Mississippi, and Stoddard counties.

A few of the workers have gone through high school, Gunn said, but many have only a fifth grade education. They are people who deserve to work and want to work.

"Forty are enrolled in the workshop and are doing a good job," he said, "but there is a waiting list of 25 in Scott county."

Gunn makes contacts with industry and gives bids on contract jobs for the packaging of wedges and screws. In 12 months the workshop has packaged five million wood wedges and ten million metal wedges.

The school started March 17 as a non profit business. Through the contracts wages are paid, overhead is taken care of and there is a surplus to operate with.

A van was donated to the workshop to transport 14 people a day from Dexter. Other organizations have donated vans to transport people in their areas and a grant has been made to provide for more transportation.

Three people were employed originally to oversee the workers, now there are six. The state requires the workers to work six hours a day and the pay rates vary with the top salary being $1.75 a day.

For the program to be successful the workers must feel they are earning their salary. Many of the workers now have a Social Security card. Doctors say the benefits of the program are great, Gunn said.

Some of the companies the workshop has had contracts with are ILX, Todd Laundry, National Lock Company and Transogram.

Gunn said that the state pays $2 a day for each worker and donations help finance the program.

Charley Johnson was a guest of the club. Jim Stallings gave a report on ticket sales for Pancake day next Tuesday. Next Tuesday's meeting has been cancelled due to Pancake day.

Helsabeck Resigns

CANTON, Mo. (AP) — Dr. Fed Helsabeck, president of Culver-Stockton College the past 16 years, has submitted his resignation, effective after the 1972-73 school year.

The resignation was announced after the regular spring meeting of the college's board of trustees Saturday by Dr. Gifford V. Leece of Quincy, Ill., chairman.

Leece said a committee has been appointed to begin screening candidates for the position.

The 63-year-old Helsabeck said he plans to return to classroom teaching following his retirement.

During his administration the college has grown from 325 students and assets of $1.4 million to more than 850 students and assets of more than $5 million.
